Drought-Produced Impasse Faces Nation's Northeast

Washington (AP) — President Johnson, told that the biggest cities of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey face a drought-produced "water impasse" within a month, Saturday called leaders of the three states to a special White House water conference Wednesday.

Johnson was told by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall it is now obvious cities taking water from the upper Delaware River Basin "will face a water impasse in early September."

Udall further reported that "common prudence requires all concerned to act on the assumption that this unprecedented drought will persist for at least one more year." Only a hurricane or a series of sod-soaking rains could ease the situation in the next few weeks, he said.

Johnson responded by inviting governors, mayors and members of Congress from the parched area to meet here Wednesday and organize "appropriate action to meet the immediate problem, to lay plans against the possibility of another year of drought, and to consider longer range attacks on the problem of water supply and conservation."

Udall, chairman of the Water Resources Council, said that group decided "present circumstances do not warrant issuance of a national disaster proclamation."

In emphasizing the scope of a potential disaster, Udall noted that an emergency meeting Friday of the Delaware River Basin Commission heard a prediction that New York City would "run out of water by the middle of February 1966" if the drought continues.

The New York representative at the commission meeting said the city's reservoirs on the Delaware River watershed "would be empty by Nov. 25" and it would be disastrous for the city to release any water into the Delaware from these reservoirs after Sept. 10, said Udall.

"Such a decision would, of course, precipitate a major new controversy among those cities which look to the Delaware as their principal source of supply."

Governors invited to the meeting are Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

Mayors expected include Robert F. Wagner of New York, James Tait of Philadelphia, Hugh Addonizio of Newark, Alfred Pierce of Camden and Thomas Whalen of Jersey City.

Udall gave Johnson this report from the Water Resources Council:

—Rainfall in the upper Delaware area has been spotty and "there has been a further reduction in the available water supply."

—Tides are carrying salt water farther and farther up the Delaware toward the intake through which the city of Philadelphia draws much of its drinking water from the river. Salt water already has reached the area where water gathers to replenish the underground wells that supply Camden.

—The major New Jersey reservoir serving Newark and the northern part of that state "is now at 35% of capacity—equivalent to 83 days' average use."

Poll Tax Voiding Sought by Suit

Justice Department Moves to Wipe Out Old Mississippi Law

Jackson, Miss., (UPI) — The Justice Department filed historic legal action Saturday to wipe out Mississippi's 75-year-old poll tax. It was the first step in a drive under the new voter rights law to eliminate the levy everywhere it is used.

The suit was filed behind closed doors of a clerk's office just 25 hours after President Johnson signed the new voter law.

It charged the tax was used in Mississippi to deny Negroes the right to vote and that its mere existence amounts to racial discrimination since whites are better able to pay the $2 levy.

The government asked for an early hearing and a three-judge panel to hear the case.

In Washington Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said the government would prosecute the case "with the utmost energy to ensure a speedy resolution." He expressed confidence the poll tax would be "struck down as unconstitutional."

Justice Dept. Atty. John Rosenberg leaves Federal Building after filing suit.

Saturday's suit was filed under Section 10 of the new law which the President said would "strike away the last major shackle" of the American Negro's chains.

The suit reviewed the history of the Mississippi poll tax, adopted in the state's constitutional convention of 1890. The Justice Department charged "the purpose of adopting the poll tax as a precondition to voting was to disenfranchise Negroes."

The suit contended that since adoption of the tax, the state "by law, practice, custom and usage has maintained and promoted white political supremacy and a racially segregated society."

The suit listed these ways in which the tax allegedly had been used to discriminate against Negroes:

Refusal to accept tax payments from Negroes if they did not know their voting precinct, though this condition was not applied to whites; failure to list in poll books the names of Negroes who had paid the tax; failure to notify Negroes along with whites of the responsibility to pay the tax; back-dating poll tax receipts for whites but not for Negroes; and actually "deterring, discouraging and intimidating" Negroes from paying poll taxes.

The government asked the court to throw out three sections of the Mississippi constitution relating to the poll tax, along with statutes implementing these sections. Both preliminary and permanent injunctions were sought forbidding any future use of the poll tax as a prequisite for voting.

Other suits will be filed in Alabama, Texas and Virginia —last states to cling to the poll tax, it was reported.

Phone Workout By LBJ

Relaxation of Weekend Split By Aide Checks

Thurmont, Md., (AP)—The nation's best telephone customer, trying to relax in the seclusion of Camp David, never-the-less gave a bit more business Saturday to the Bell System.

While the weekend was supposedly given over to relaxation, President Johnson hit the phone repeatedly to keep in touch with the nation's business.

He had a long talk with Arthur J. Goldberg, the new U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, on pending business before the world organization.

He talked also with other administration officials about trouble spots in the world, in between swimming at the pool at Camp David, walking through the woods, and otherwise taking it easy.

The President and Mrs. Johnson had guests for the weekend at the presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, but they were described as "personal guests," and the White House did not name them.

At the White House, Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers described the day as "a quiet day," with some work and some relaxation.

Moyers said Johnson spent some time going over reports from Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, on the nation's fiscal position in the world, and from John W. Macy Jr., chairman of the Civil Service Commission and the president's chief scout in rounding up personnel for key government jobs.

The Johnsons arrived at Camp David by helicopter Friday night and plan to return to the White House late Sunday or early Monday.

Freeman Orders Ag Workers Aid

Washington, (AP)—Field offices of the Agriculture Department in southern states have been notified by Secretary Orville L. Freeman that they are expected to help implement the new federal voting rights legislation signed by President Johnson.

Freeman has sent a memorandum to field offices in the Atlanta and Dallas regions giving instructions for assisting the Civil Service Commission to administration of the voter registration program.

New War Strategy Adopted

Gen. Wheeler Says VC Will Be Kept on Run

Washinyton (UPI) — Gen. Earle G. Wheeler said Saturday night the United States and South Vietnam now had adopted a strategy which "gives the best assurance of military victory" over the Communist in the Vietnamese war.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who recently returned from strategy conferences in Honolulu, spelled out some details of the set up in the war in a speech to the 2nd Armored Division Association at its annual reunion.

The aim is to keep the combat tempo at such a rate that the enemy will be on the run, unable to recuperate or regain balance, he said.

"And one thing we have learned about guerrilla warfare," Wheeler said, "is that once you have the guerrillas on the run, they run downhill to eventual defeat or at least impotency."

Washington and Saigon intend to gain a "preponderance of military power over the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese forces," Wheeler asserted.

With greater mobility and improved intelligence, he said, the forces of the two countries will be able "to find the enemy more often and defeat him when we fight him."

The strategy of keeping the guerrillas on the run with superior military power and blasting military targets in the north to restrict supplies and men, the general said, "in my opinion gives the best assurance of military victory in South Vietnam."

The United States has announced an interim plan to build up to 125,000 men in Vietnam. Wheeler said this country would do whatever required to convince the Communists "that we cannot be defeated by force of arms."

The sooner that is realized, he said, and the sooner North Vietnamese agree to negotiate "the better off the world will be."

He said both the United States and South Vietnamese governments realize that a military victory had to be accompanied by a political victory and, therefore, political and economic programs were important parts of the total American effort in South Vietnam.

Wheeler called the Vietnamese war the greatest military problem of the present and probably for some time to come and said there was no doubt it would "entail some sacrifice on the part of the American people."

He said if this country gave up in Vietnam, it would encourage Communist expansion and pressure on the remainder of Southeast Asia.

"Unless we are willing to see freedom vanish from Southeast Asia," the general said, "defeat in South Vietnam will force us to draw a new line somewhere in that area and try to defend that."

Reuss Goes To Aid Son

Flies Home From London

Washington (AP) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., planned to leave for Mississippi Saturday to "do anything that needs to be done" to finalize dismissal of manslaughter charges against his son.

Charges against the boy, Mike, 18, were dropped earlier Saturday. He had been charged with manslaughter after the death of Highway Patrolman B. Cowart, who fell dead of a heart attack while searching young Reuss in a West Point, Miss., jail.

Young Reuss had been arrested with 44 other civil rights workers in a demonstration.

The charges were dropped by Dist. Atty. Harvey Buck after an investigation.

The congressman flew here from London, where he was to attend a monetary conference, after notification of his son's arrest.

Reuss said after landing he was interested in circumstances "surrounding this thing."

He said his son was in Mississippi to teach Negro children in the area, which he called a "very necessary thing" and said he approved of his son's participation in the project wholeheartedly.

Reuss said his first reaction on learning his son had been charged with manslaughter was a confident feeling "that he (Mike) was guilty of no wrongdoing."

He said the attorney general of Mississippi must approve dismissal of the charges and he wants to "do anything that needs to be done to finalize the dismissal of the charges."

Reds Lay Down Mortar Barrages

Planes Retaliate Against VC

Saigon, Vietnam (AP) — The Viet Cong opened up with mortar barrages Saturday on government positions north and south of Saigon. U.S. and Vietnamese warplanes in retaliatory strikes killed about 200 guerrillas, by count of forward air controllers.

In new air raids on North Vietnam, a Navy A1 Skyraider was hit by ground fire and plunged to earth. A U.S. spokesman said the pilot was presumed killed.

Elsewhere on the ground, a Vietnamese unit reported it uncovered a major Viet Cong medical facility, an ammunition factory and a supply depot in the jungles 35 miles southwest of Saigon.

The mortar attacks south of Saigon hit government outposts in the Mekong Delta 100 to 125 miles from the capital. Vietnamese casualties were reported light in some attacks but there were no reports on others.

North of the capital, the Viet Cong hammered a special forces camp at Duc Co, five miles from the Cambodian border, with mortar fire. A press dispatch said scores of wounded were removed by helicopter.

The camp is surrounded by the Viet Cong and Vietnamese paratroopers were sent to its relief. They were unable to break out of the encirclement, however. The camp, about 215 miles north of Saigon, is about 40 miles southwest of the government stronghold at Pleiku.

The Navy Skyraider was lost during a raid on the Dong Hoi barracks area 40 miles north of the border.

While the spokesman reported all other planes returned from North Vietnam missions, Hanoi Radio claimed four U.S. planes were shot down.

A U.S. Army adviser said the seizures of the medical-ammunition complex southwest of Saigon "really hurt the Viet Cong." A Vietnamese unit, tipped by intelligence reports, came upon the Viet Cong hospital 10 miles north of Tan Hiep. It consisted of 15 wards, each capable of caring for from 10 to 20 patients. Five tons of medicine and medical supplies were found.

Also found was a Viet Cong ammunition factory with arms and ammunition and a supply depot with 1,000 tons of rice.

In the political field, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky called for greater cooperation among the anti-Communist nations of Southeast Asia in the war on the Viet Cong.

Ky said it was with this idea in mind that he is making trips to Thailand and Chinese Nationalist Formosa later this month.

Later in the day, Radio Peking declared it would intervene in the Vietnam conflict if the United States continued its buildup in South Vietnam.

Saigon also was speculating on the Viet Cong's call for help from North Vietnam, broadcast by Hanoi Radio Friday. Some viewed the appeal as evidence the Viet Cong has suffered heavy casualties and need help.

Others saw it as a response to President Johnson' recent announcement that 50,000 more U.S. troops would be sent to South Vietnam, bringing American strength to 125,000 men.

Mansfield Views Major Legislation

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

Washington (UPI)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield singled out farm legislation and the bill to repeal state right-to-work laws as major hurdles Saturday, but said he still hopes for Congress to adjourn "around Labor Day."

The Montana lawmaker said Congress made important progress last week, culminating in final enactment of voting rights bill. He scheduled another heavy legislative schedule for the coming week although there is no session Monday.

Mansfield said he hopes the Senate will act Tuesday on the administration's proposal for a cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Affairs. He said he plans Senate action, perhaps as early as Wednesday, on the billion dollar military pay increase bill, which the House has passed in somewhat similar form.

Then, Mansfield said, the Senate will turn to the House-approved bill doubling the authorization for the President's war on poverty programs.

The administration-backed farm bill is still pending in the House Rules Committee. But the House already has approved the bill to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law which allows state laws to ban union shop labor-management agreements.

"Both of those will be tough," said Mansfield, assessing the prospects in the Senate. He said the administration's immigration bill, still pending in the House, may take some time in the Senate.

Among other pre-adjournment problems, Mansfield mentioned the failure of House and Senate conferees to agree on a compromise authorization for the foreign aid program.

He said that, if the impasse continues, it may be necessary to make "some continuing agreement" to let the Agency for International Development (AID) spend at about its present level until an agreement can be reached, perhaps in January.

Meanwhile, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., denounced the proposed new cabinet department as a "needless expansion of the already huge and unwieldly federal bureaucracy."

Ellender, one of the Senate's earliest backers of major housing legislation, said, "It has never been shown to my satisfaction that a Department of Housing and Urban Development could do a better job than what is now being done, at less expense to our government."

Public Is Conscious of FBI

By GEORGE GALLUP

During the 41 years since J. Edgar Hoover has been its director, the FBI has frequently been lavishly praised and it has been bitterly attacked

Controversy has recently flared up about the FBI's role in enforcing civil rights legislation, with some critics saying it has exceeded its proper functions while others have charged that it is not performing its duties.

What does the public know about the FBI? Do they know what it is and what it does? What is their attitude toward it?

To get the answers to these

and other questions, the Gallup Poll assigned its nationwide interviewing staff to query a reresentative sample of the nation's adults.

The results show that while a high proportion (78%) of the adults of the country can identify the FBI, there is considerable confusion as to what its functions are.

About half of those interviewed indicated that they understood that the FBI investigates violations of federal crimes within its jurisdiction. But a sizable minority is confused about its role, or mistakes ist relationship to other agencies of the government.

Hoover has often pointed out that the FBI is not a national police force. It is a unit of the Department of Justice, charged with investigating crimes and authorized to make arrests only when federal laws within its jurisdiction are broken.

Although the FBI provides technical assistance to local authorities when requested, it has no authority over state and local police and cannot take any action unless a federal law has been violated. The Secret Service is an entirely different agency, reporting to the Treasury Department and not to the Attorney-General.

J. Edgar Hoover is almost as well known as is the FBI itself.

Those interviewed in the survey were asked:

"Do you happen to know who the head of the FBI is? (If yes—Who?)"

More than seven persons in 10 (72%) correctly named J. Edgar Hoover. This is an extraordinarily high proportion, as compared with the results of similar questions asked. Typically, when people are asked to name the head of a cabinet department or some equally prominent public post, not more than 50% are able to do so.

As an indication of the public's over-all attitude toward the FBI, they were asked this final question:

"If you had a son who decided to become an FBI agent, would you be pleased or displeased?"

The replies make it clear that the overwhelming majority hold the bureau in very high esteem, for more than three out of four (77%) said they would be pleased, and only 11% said they would be displeased. Most of those who said they would be displeased gave as their reason the belief it would be dangerous work.

Interestingly enough, the proportion of people who say they would be pleased if a son wanted to join the FBI is highest at the upper educational level. Among college trained persons, actually 86% have this attitude, as shown in the table below:

U.S. Diverts Transport Ships

Heidelberg, Germany (AP) — The United States has diverted military transport ships from the Europe-United States run to carry troops to Vietnam, a U.S. Army spokesman disclosed Saturday. He said that the Army's European headquarters here had had sufficient advance notice of the diversion to make arrangements for the air travel.

Depletion Allowances Suggested For Associates of Presidents

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chicago Daily News Special

Washington—Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. and Ted Sorensen very likely will become millionaires peddling their memories of association with the late John F. Kennedy.

It is generally accepted that Life magazine and Look magazine paid these men in six-figure amounts for the material that has already appeared under their names. And the prices asked by Sorensen's agent for newspaper serialization rights to his merchandise suggest that this young man may soon be in the market for a 100-foot yacht.

Opinion Analysis Of Author

All of which brings up a question that should be further explored.

Why should there not be a depletion allowance arranged for public pay-rollers who expect to cash in on their association with a president?

Public servants who are close enough to the president to hear him mutter to himself at sundown, and who can then rush home to dictate what they just heard, certainly have a vested interest in the president.

If the president for whom these pay-rollers work dies spectacularly and prematurely, as did John F. Kennedy, the vested interest of his associates pays off at the peak of the market.

However, if the president lingers on into a venerable old age, the interest in him diminishes, and his associates find themselves stuck with diaries that are good only for a doctoral thesis or something equally unremunerative.

The oil companies, the coal companies, or anybody who owns mineral wealth get a depletion allowance from 5 to 27½% per year on their vested interests. There is no reason a generous federal government cannot do the same thing for presidential assistants who are waiting to cash in on their White House experiences.

Evelyn Lincoln, the late president's secretary has written a book called "My 12 Years With Kennedy." It is highly unlikely that there is anything in this memoir that will change the pattern of history. But in view of the dramatic and untimely death of President Kennedy, Mrs. Lincoln's notes are important enough to induce the Saturday Evening Post to pay a handsome stipend for the right to publish excerpts from the book.

Most of us newspapermen do some name dropping when a great man dies. We kid ourselves that this is history. But at least we do it at the regular scale of pay.

There is something a little sad about the haste with which the associates of a president try to go to press first with their memoirs. This haste is so precipitate that the historians sometimes don't even take time out to ponder problems of bad taste.

The humiliation to which Schlesinger submitted Sec. of State Dean Rusk in his magazine writings may have arisen from Arthur's eagerness to get into print while the market was still fresh.

It may seem cruel to say so, but Jack Kennedy left his friends with more than he knew when he slumped over dead from an assassin's bullet in Dallas. He left them a peak market for their diaries and notes.

Lust, Fear Given As Slaying Motives

Austin, Tex. (UPI)—A clean-cut University of Texas man confessed that in a lustful rage he strangled one pretty coed in his apartment and choked another to death to keep her from spreading the alarm, a justice of the peace disclosed Saturday.

The motive in the killing of coeds Shirley Ann Stark and Susan Rigsby, both 21, confessed by James C Cross Jr., was "sexual desire," according to Justice of the Peace Frank McBee.

Misses Stark and Rigsby were killed July 18, a few hours after they arrived in Austin from their Dallas homes. Other sources said the girls took showers in Cross' apartment and he admitted killing one while the other was showering.

Cross, who will be 23 in September, is an ex-soldier with service in Japan and a junior at the University. He gave himself up last night and confessed McBee took a statement in longhand from him.

Five feet, nine inches tall Cross weighs 145 pounds. His dark hair is crew-cut and his family is well-to-do. His father is advertising manager for Monnig's, a big Fort Worth department store

Cross met Miss Stark in biology class and went out with her "seven or eight times" in the regular 1964-1965 university session.

But until he decided to confess, he had denied seeing her since last May. McBee said Cross was lounging about his apartment at noon July 18, looking at a ball game on television, when Miss Stark, newly arrived from Dallas with Miss Rigsby, telephoned.

He invited her to his apartment. Both girls went to the apartment. The killing followed. The details of what happened were not clear because investigators refused to talk about the confession.

Red China Pledges Aid To Anti-U.S. Cambodia

Tokyo (UPI) — Communist China would "resolutely support" Cambodia should the United States attack that country, Red Chinese Vice-Premier Li Hsien-Nien declared Saturday.

The Communist official's statement was reported Saturday by Peking's New China News Service (NCNA), monitored in Tokyo.

Li reportedly made the remark in a banquet speech in honor of Son Sann, vice premier of Cambodia, and the delegation he is leading on a visit to Communist China

"Should the U.S. imperialists dare to extend the flames of their war of aggression against Vietnam to Cambodia," Li was reported as saying, "the Chinese people would stand by the Cambodian people and resolutely support their just struggle."

Li praised Cambodia for rejecting U.S. aid and repeated the Communist line that "the more the U.S. escalates their war, the quicker and heavier their defeat will be."

In a return speech at the Peking banquet, the Cambodian vice premier was quoted as saying that Cambodia "especially" opposes U.S. aggression.

"We say what we think and we defend what we think at all costs," Sann was quoted as saying.

U.S. Protests Indonesian Attack

Washington (AP)—The United States protested in Washington and Jakarta Saturday against the latest mob attack on U.S. official quarters in Indonesia, this time the American consulate at Surabaya.

The State Department announced that Deputy Assistant Secretary Samuel D Berger called in the Indonesian ambassador, Lambertus N. Palar, to deliver an oral protest. In Jakarta, Ambassador Marshall Green sent a note to Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio.

A State Department spokesman said that more than 5,000 rioters demonstrated outside the Surabaya consulate, tore down the American consular shield and damaged the building.

Indonesian police prevented the mob from entering the consulate and none of the seven staff members were injured, he added

A U.S. claim for compensation will be delivered to Indonesia after the embassy determines how much damage was done to the building.

Green, in his protest note, called for Indonesian protection against any recurrence of such attacks. He referred also to a mob attack on another U.S. consulate at Medan July 30 and a demonstration at Green's Jakarta residence July 26.

Community Unit Hospital Planning

After six successive years of application for federal hospital constructing matching "Hill-Burton" grants, Lincoln General Hospital's turn at high priority has arrived and its application has been recommended for approval by the State Advisory Hospital Council.

This action is appreciated by the Community of Lincoln. This favorable action again implements both the letter and the spirit of Lincoln's very successful recent United Hospital Campaign and its unique community unit plan of achieving hospital progress for Lincoln by one single coordinated, correlated plan involving sequential improvement of Lincoln General, St. Elizabeth and Bryan hospitals.

In this context the application of Lincoln General was sponsored "under the tent of" the community unit approach by the Lincoln Hospital Council. Nationally, more and more communities of multi-hospital size are coordinating hospital planning and improvement endeavors through area wide hospital councils who are alert to avoid the cost of unnecessary duplication and overbuilding yet alert to see that some one institution in the area provides the modern, more expensive procedures that should be available to the community's citizens.

If a community overdoes hospital building or fails to stay modern, it is the poor patient that pays for it in the long run, either in the form of a higher bill or a risk to personal health and safety.

This explains why the federal government is encouraging community hospital planning through a priority system in Hill-Burton funds. And why state officials have encouraged Lincoln to pioneer this concept in Nebraska.

Yet when the Lincoln Hospital Council endeavored to comply, it encountered both a vagueness and some in-fighting politics from Omahans on the Council desirous of getting Hill-Burton funds for Omaha hospital projects.

Perhaps the vagueness was unavoidable in the launching of any new effort. The state of Nebraska has not yet revised its state hospital plan to recognize the community unit concept in legal terms. Yet the state was holding a hearing for these federal construction funds ahead of revision of the state hospital plan and before any guidelines had been given Lincoln on just how to proceed to implement the community unit plan adopted for Lincoln.

Under the as yet unrevised state plan, Lincoln General could individually apply for its own project and qualify as a high priority. This would take care of Lincoln General but would not preserve for St. Elizabeth and Bryan the high priority of Lincoln as a community in which two-thirds of the hospital beds were obsolete, unmodern or non-fire resistant.

Granting of Lincoln General's application would upon completion of its project, improve about one-third of the bed needs in Lincoln. And, in the absence of a community unit plan, this would leave a community priority for St. Elizabeth and Bryan based on one-third unsatisfied need rather than the present two-third unsatisfied need.

On the other hand, treating the Lincoln General application in the spirit of community unit planning as the first part of and first priority of implementing Lincoln's total community unit plan not only would give Lincoln General its application approval but would preserve to St. Elizabeth and Bryan their component part of a community priority whose needs were two-thirds rather than one-third unsatisfied.

For this reason, the Lincoln Hospital Council and the three hospitals certified that the Lincoln General application was being made as part of the Lincoln Community Unit Plan.

The Lincoln General application was recommended for approval by a 4 to 2 vote. This action was consistent with both the present unrevised state hospital plan and with the community unit approach made by the Lincoln Hospital Council and its three member hospitals,

The two, and only, votes against Lincoln General came from Omaha members who are interested in seeing Omaha hospitals get approval for Hill-Burton funds in nearby future years.

Both Omahans said their votes were not to be construed against Lincoln General getting on this year's priority list. Yet both Omahans had fought against moral commitment by Lincoln General in past years before the community unit concept, fought to cut Hill-Burton funds from 40% to 33% of a project cost, and fought to win a $1 million ceiling on any individual Hill-Burton hospital project, even though Omaha has had a full 40% on several multi-million projects in past years.

Unrebuffed by State Health Board refusal to change the basic Hill-Burton 40% participation rule, Omahans again tried unsuccessfully to set a ceiling on all Lincoln projects that would have been a 20% rather than a 40% participation. But they won no support from the other members of the board. This difference is $2 million dollars to the people of Lincoln who have already put up $8 million towards the community unit facilities.

Any success to Omaha's blocking motions would be the death knell of any community planning in the state. How could communities be encouraged to do community planning at the cost of cutting the community's Hill-Burton participation by one-half?

If the state hospital plan is not revised both to encompass the community unit concept, and to protect those who responded to appeals to develop a community unit approach to hospital planning, the plan assuredly faces a stormy future with state and federal officials. And an image of complete "bad faith" will be left with the community of Lincoln who stretched $8 million in recent years for hospital facilities which will serve both this community and many areas of the state.

Never a Dull Moment

As long as Sen. Carl Curtis has been in Congress it might seem nothing would surprise him. But in a news release he says, "Here's a new one: What to do with an extra $50 billion in revenue five years from now is bothering the President's Council of Economic Advisers."

Appearing before the Senate House Joint Economic Committee recently, Council Chairman Gardner Ackley said that current tax rates would produce about $170 billion in federal revenue five years hence, or approximately $50 billion more than this year.

He then told the Committee that "fiscal actions" between now and 1970 would be concerned with "using up" this $50 billion in the form of tax cuts, increased federal spending or reduction of the national debt.

But here is where Sen. Curtis was left speechless. In the next breath, Ackley warned that our economic growth would be slowed thus curtailing the revenue increase unless it is used up chiefly through more federal spending or tax cuts. Sen. Curtis got the idea that Ackley feels that reducing the national debt would be a drag on the economy.

We're just going to have to take a course in that new math.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND'S Opinion

The LBJ-Ford Dispute

Washington—There is more than meets the eye in the political dust-up in which President Johnson and House Republican Leader Gerald Ford are giving light flicks of the glove to each other. The stated cause of the President's ire and Ford's bland "who, me?" isn't important enough to explain the sudden flare-up.

Sure, the President doesn't like leaks to the press from the White House—or anywhere else—except when he does the leaking. And he doesn't like it suggested that he was scared off (which he wasn't) from asking more Vietnam build-up from Congress than he did because of inadequate support from within his own party.

Naturally the House Minority Leader doesn't like being called names ("inexperienced," "new," "bitter partisan") by the White House, even if LBJ doesn't mention his name but leaves it to reporters to apply his remark where he flung it.

The fact is that what the White House implied Ford had said—that Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield had argued against calling up the reserves—he hadn't said and what Ford told newspapermen about the Presidential briefing on Vietnam had already been learned by much of the Washington press corps. At which point both Johnson and Ford made it clear they did not wish to continue the tiff.

Then why the big rumble in the first place? The President has no reason to be worried about Democratic or Republican support in Congress when the going gets rougher in Vietnam. He knows it.

But there is a tender nerve very near the surface in the relations between the President and the Republican party over Vietnam. It hardly touches at all the prosecution of the war. Primarily, it concerns the prosecution of the peace.

Most Republicans in Congress, who are supporting Johnson's course in Vietnam more unitedly than the Democrats, are just waiting to pounce if the President makes some slip in negotiating the peace.

They are genuinely apprehensive that the Democratic party influences on the President may cause him to accept a Laos-type settlement giving the Communists a grip on South Vietnam which would finally enable them to take over. This is the exposed nerve in the otherwise pallid Johnson-Ford contretemps.

The real danger is not that the Republicans will call the defense of Vietnam "Johnson's war." The real danger to the President is that the Republicans will call it "Johnson's peace" if the ultimate settlement goes awry. They would thereby acquire a political issue on which a whole election could turn.

The Power of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

Roy and Dale Evans Rogers, the actors, are potent witnesses to faith.

Their strong belief in service to God and mankind appears in every phase of their active lives. Even in their programs they include religion.

The joys and sorrows of raising an international family, their own and adopted, have added vigor to their faith. Their love for children has resulted in well over 2,000 hospital visits and thousands of long distance calls.

The "King of the Cowboys" and his "Queen of the West" have done much to proclaim the kingdom of God.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

No longer can a person accumulate a few college degrees and then rest on his laurels.

Donald J. Rettig of the United Press International puts it this way: "Even an educated man has to run hard to keep pace with galloping technologies and corporations are paying for his track shoes.

A conservative estimate of industry's outlay for education in 1965 is $4.5 billion.

Some corporations provide their own training, others turn to outside sources for help.

One such source is RCA Institutes, Inc., a service organization of the Radio Corp. of America, which has been around for 56 years, primarily to train personnel in radio, television and electronics. Because of the exploding frontiers of knowledge in electronics it has turned to helping corporations and other customers keep their engineers, scientists and technicians abreast of the times.

The president of the Institutes, George L. Maedel, told Rettig, that 95% of those attending the custom education programs have one or more college degrees. Many of the participants hold doctorates in engineering.

The Institutes even has custom designed courses for several corporations which are competitors of its parents, RCA.

About a year ago the Institutes developed technical seminars that travel to various major metropolitan areas. Computer seminars have been presented in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, Chicago and Cleveland. The cost of the seminars is about $300 per student.

A corporation, government agency or union will contact the Institutes for help in upgrading their scientists or engineers. The Institutes also reviews specific problems, prepares and presents programs. The cost is based on the length and scope of the program.

Even with their college degrees, participants in the custom courses still have homework. Some get report cards—grades are requested by their employer.

In a sense the Institutes even has "drop-outs." If someone attending is not keeping pace he may be asked to drop out by the director of the course or his own employer. However, the Institutes reports the number of these is very small.

The pressure the modern technological age has put on the youth of today is rather frightening. The day a man could hang his sheepskin in his den, forget it and get on with living is fast disappearing.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

Critical of the Legislature's recent action on location of a state supported trade school, the North Plate Telegraph Bulletin writes:

". . . Only Sidney won approval for such a school, apparently because they could offer free use of the land, building and other facilities of the deactivated Sioux Army Depot."

However, the Bulletin points out that workers bidding for North Platte "offered a good local site free . . . We don't believe the idea of depending upon local or area taxation to supply our needs in this field will ever be successful."

Although Norfolk also lost out in its bid for a state supported trade school, the Pierce County Leader says "if northeast Nebraska is on their toes they will not let the situation die at this point."

The Leader suggests that under the "enabling act" passed by the Legislature allowing the establishment of an area trade school, Norfolk "should establish a trade school for those persons not financially able and those not adapted to college level learning."

LB850

The Grand Island Independent raised its editorial eyebrows in objecting to the principle behind the Legislature's passing of LB850, which abolishes the $200 exemption on the household goods tax.

Noting that the Legislature is probably "just strapped for money," the Independent writes:

". . . LB850 will actually do the state little good. It has been estimated that taxpayers will have to cough up an extra $1.4 million each year under this plan. But the state, if its mill rate should wind up at 10 mills, for example, would only get 20 cents more from each taxpayer, or a small fraction of the total. The rest would go into local tax coffers."

McCook Upheaval

The effect of the Civil Rights upheaval has hit McCook resulting in the resignation of the mayor, according to the McCook Daily Gazette.

Mayor S. M. Karrer resigned in a squabble over signing a declaration that there would not be job discrimination in the use of $300,000 of federal money in building an extension to the McCook airport runway. Federal regulations require such a declaration.)

"No one can justly criticize the mayor for resigning since he felt that he could not agree to non-discrimination at the airport as a separate and distinct document in addition to the law of the land which already bans discrimination," said the Gazette.

"I feel the federal government is justified in putting special emphasis on the Civil Rights issue and in seeking statements of support and understanding," according to the Gazette.

Rabies Shots

Lincoln—The statement in the news story in the Sunday Journal and Star, July 18, "Strong opposition from the Cornhusker Kennel Club defeated Dr. Underwood's earlier attempts to establish compulsory (rabies) vaccination and better control of stray dogs," is not completely true.

The Cornhusker Kennel Club has always been for better control of stray dogs, but the club is against compulsory rabies vaccination for these reasons:

(1) No rabies reported in dogs in this area, (2) because of the leash law, dogs are not allowed to run loose, and stray dogs picked up by the Humane Society are required to have a rabies shot before leaving the animal shelter, and (3) with compulsory vaccination every year or three years, toxic reactions might occur in some dogs.

How would an epidemic of rabies be controlled if many dogs become immune to this vaccine due to compulsory vaccination?

The Cornhusker Kennel Club is definitely opposed to compulsory rabies vaccination but is not opposed to vaccination on an independent basis. The Club has sponsored two clinics for rabies vaccination in the past and is considering a clinic in early 1966.

Senate Prayer

Lincoln — The ostentatious display of the Senate Prayer Breakfast in the feature "The Power of Faith" (Sunday Journal and Star, August 1) shows the comparative caliber of these senators with that of the founding fathers, who at the Constitutional Convention refused to turn to the escapism of public prayer or cheap political appeal.

Half Minute Inspiration

Looking back is important, so that we learn from our mistakes, as well as from the occasions when we have improved. But having looked back once, and gained the lesson, let us turn towards the future and make it bright with work well planned and carried out in such a way that it will honor God, contribute something worthwhile to this world that gives us so much, and then leaves us with a sense of having become stronger for more and better work tomorrow. Let us build for the future! Let us build well and persistently.

Personal Views Of The News

That mankind has come a long ways in many things is attested to by this account from Congressional Quarterly:

"Just 100 years ago this summer, an army of fortune hunters, adventurers, entrepreneurs, and madames descended on the borough of Pithole, Pa., a remote valley 100 miles north of Pittsburgh. Earlier in that year of 1865 the promoters of a stock-selling scheme had struck oil in the valley located only a short distance from Drake's Well. The Pithole well, moreover, was a flowing one and yielded 250 barrels a day without pumping. Oil then was bringing $6 a barrel—no small sum in 1865 dollars.

"Within a few months the buckwheat fields had been transformed into a boisterous city of 15,000. Soon the townsite changed hands for $2 million. Half-acre oil leases sold for $16,500 and seemed worth it, because even the springs were flowing oil. Pithole was a complete town, consisting of 57 hotels (some of them more accurately described as 'houses'), a daily newspaper, water system, two churches, several banks, twice daily railroad service, and a busy post office.

"But the bubble soon burst. The oil stopped flowing and by 1867 the town was dying. Pithole today by some miracle of nature has been restored nearly to its natural state. Only an occasional cellar hole and the historical markers give evidence that man once stripped the hills to erect a town of mud streets and raw wood. Deer graze in the peaceful fields, tall pines whisper in the breeze, and pheasants whir from the thick ground cover. The visitor is reminded of the lines from Carl Sandburg's The Grass: 'Shovel them under and let me work—I am the grass; I cover all.' "

The anniversary, of course, recalls a period in the history of this nation when we were still a largely untamed wilderness. Many western territories had been established but statehood, even, had not yet descended upon all the current members of the Union. Truly, the grass did cover all or at least nature in some form gave the land a great abundance.

Where grass did not prevail, timber did and it was a resource of great value in its own right. Streams flowed clear with sparkling cool water because then we didn't need the conservation practices that are so in demand today but which were totally unknown then.

We didn't need them because nature provided for conservation in her own way. What flooding did take place was an essential part of the scheme of things and made a larger contribution to the land than it took away.

The experience of Pithole is largely the experience of the nation in the last 100 years. We ravaged the land and its resources for a long time until we discovered that our plenty was not so endless as we had first imagined. Men and women still seek somewhat the same kind of rainbow they sought in Pithole a hundred years ago but we have come to know that what is extracted from the world must, in some way, be replaced and that is a lesson we should never forget.

Many trucks parked at a small cafe do not always indicate that the coffee is above average in quality. It is more a dependable sign that the waitress is attractive.—Doug Meador, Matador (Tex.) Tribune.

Village Water Planned

Government Would Aid in Development

Washington (UPI) — Congress is moving toward final action on a bill which its sponsors claim could help bring new life to many fading country towns.

The legislation has already passed the Senate by a unanimous vote and is pending in the House. It would expand federal aid for construction of central water-supply systems in rural areas.

Who needs help?

The Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration (FHA) estimates that about 30,000 rural towns lack central water systems to supply household needs, businesses, industries, fire protection and needs of nearby farmers.

Many rural communities—more than 900 since mid-1960—have built new water systems with credit under an FHA program which insures repayment of funds advanced by private lenders. But for some others, FHA officials say, costs are still so high that the communities can't pay the bill without supplemental help in the form of direct grants.

"It is a simple fact of life that either the construction of such systems must be subsidized, or many rural people never will have running water," an FHA official told a House subcommittee considering the rural aid bill.

The measure includes three major steps:

—The FHA's $200 million-a-year program of insuring real estate-backed loans made by private lenders would be expanded to $450 million a year.

—The agency would be authorized to make up to $30 million a year in direct cash grants to help finance construction and planning of rural water systems.

—Loans and grants combined for water system projects would be allowed to go up to $4 million per project. At present the ceiling is $500,000 per project on FHA loans made with government funds and $1 million on FHA-insured loans made with private capital.

In the fiscal year ended last June 30, the FHA insured 387 water system loans for a total of $50.4 million. Expanding the fund to $450 million would probably push water system lending to more than $125 million a year, government experts said.

The proposed $30 million supplemental grant program is small in comparison with the four-year $200 million-a-year program of grants for community water and sewer projects approved by Congress recently as part of the 1965 housing act.

But congressional sponsors of the rural water bill fear that small country communities will run a poor second to bigger urban and suburban areas in taking advantage of housing act aid through the Housing and Home Finance Administration.

The housing act program is available to public agencies in communities of all sizes. But farm officials contend the additional grants authorized by the new rural water bill "will help assure that all sectors of the country are adequately supported in community facility development."

The Farmers Home Administration program offers aid to non-profit local associations and cooperatives, in addition to public agencies. The housing act program deals only with public bodies.

Steen Warns of High Prices If LB554 Fails

By JOHN ARMSTRONG, UP

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen said Saturday the Commission will have to pay outlandishly high prices for certain tracts of land if the Legislature fails to pass a bill extending the Commission's eminent domain powers.

The bill, LB554, which permits the Commission to use condemnation powers to acquire 15 assorted tracts totaling 4,139 acres, is scheduled for final reading this week.

"These are all key areas, and the property owners know they have us over a barrel," said Steen. "If we don't get eminent domain powers for these areas, we'll be forced to pay excessive prices or make deals which are disadvantageous to the state.

"These are lands we've just got to have."

Various circumstances, including owner reluctance and cloudy titles, have prevented the Commission from purchasing the acreage specified in LB554, Steen said.

The largest tracts involved are 2,000 acres for the Indian Cave State Park in southeast Nebraska and 704 acres for Ash Hollow State Historical Park near the Garden County community of Lewellen.

"When we've got eminent domain powers, we're able to negotiate," he said. "In fact, since the bill was drawn we've been able to purchase more than 1,000 acres of land."

In its original form, LB554 would have given the Commission broad condemnation powers, but the measure was amended to specify tracts after the Agriculture and Recreation Committee balked at the initial bill.

The bill ran into a bit of trouble on general file, its first legislative floor stop, when Omaha Sen. Clifton Batchelder urged that the measure be killed to protect the property rights of individuals.

He said proponents of the bill show "a complete lack of appreciation for the rights of the property owner, and the trend toward the socialistic idea of everything for the masses and nothing for the individual."

He contended eminent domain should never be used simply to force an unwilling property owner to sell.

However, supporters of the bill argued that scenic, historical and recreational areas must be preserved for the public and the specific tracts in LB554 are needed to carry out the state's 10-year park and tourism development program.

The bill was advanced from general file on a 21-14 vote, and it encountered little trouble on select file, its second floor stop. The measure will need 25 affirmative votes to receive final passage.

Tracts specified in LB554, with acreage, include:

Indian Cave State Park, 2,000 acres.
Ash Hollow State Historical Park, 704.6 acres.
Ponca State Park, 560 acres.
Scout's Rest Ranch State Historical Park, 40 acres.
Kearney State Recreation Area, two tracts totaling 220 acres.
Wood River State Wayside area, 2.85 acres for access.
Platte Valley Parkway Road Ranch at Elm Creek interchange on the Interstate Highway, 250 acres.
Cuadron State Park, 10 acres for entrance control.
State Wayside Area at Shelton interchange, 5.22 acres.
State Wayside Area at Alda interchange, 5 acres.
Newark Strip State special use area, 5.09 acres.
Grand Island overpass state special use area, 121.5 acres.
Two Rivers State Recreation Area, 30 acres.
Chalkmine State Wayside Area, 40 acres.
Proposed wayside area at Odessa interchange, 14 acres.
Newark Strip state special use area, 1 acre.
Wildlife Management Area between Platte River and the Interstate highway 124 acres.
Statewide area south of Maxwell, 15 acres.

Sub to Explore Sea Bottom

This is an artist's conception of a submarine of the future that will be used to explore America's continental shelves. Atomic powered, the sub would be designed to carry a crew of five or six and be able to stay down as long as the endurance of the crew and food supplies. It would be equipped with flood lights, television cameras and mechanical arms. President Johnson ordered the submersive after the signing of an international agreement that awards each country mineral and other rights in or on its continental shelves. Nearly a million square miles await the peering eyes and probing fingers of the mini-sub. No design for the vehicle has been submitted.

Kennedys Return Sinatra Visit Aboard Luxury Yacht

Hyannis Port, Mass. (UPI) —Jacqueline Kennedy paid an unexpected visit Saturday night to the luxury yacht carrying crooner Frank Sinatra and his teen-age sweetheart Mia Farrow some 12 hours after Sinatra made an equally unexpected port of call stop at the Kennedy compound.

The widow of the late President boarded the palatial yacht apparently at the invitation of Sinatra, and remained on board for about three hours.

She was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Patricia Lawford, and several other members of the Kennedy family.

Peace Corps Director and Mrs. R. Sargent Shriver arrived a short time later in their private motor boat.

Earlier in the day, Sinatra and members of his party visited for about 30 minutes with former U.S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, ailing father of the late President.

Actress Rosalind Russell described the visit as "very cordial."

"Mr. Kennedy seemed very alert and he followed the conversation very well," Miss Russell told reporters later.

The 49-year-old Sinatra, Miss Farrow, 19, and other members of the party were met at the Kennedy yacht pier by Mrs. Lawford when the Sinatra yacht pulled into Hyannis Port harbor Saturday morning.

A Kennedy family spokesman said the port of call visit was "unexpected" as far as the family was concerned.

Spiked Rumor May Have Averted Drop

By MERRIMAN SMITH

Washington (UPI) — Now that the incident is past, it may be safely told how another stock market nose-dive may have been averted recently in connection with a rumor about President Johnson's health.

The New York Stock Exchange, still shaky from a multi-billion dollar plunge set off by mysterious calls to brokerage houses, had just opened.

An editor in United Press International's Washington Bureau took an incoming telephone call. A young male wanted to know if the UPI knew that Johnson had been rushed to nearby Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Refusing to identify himself, the caller explained he had a friend who worked at Bethesda. He said the friend had reported to him by telephone moments before that the President had been carried into the hospital secretly. Furthermore, the caller said FBI men were swarming around the big hospital.

The bureau telephoned its staff at the White House and reporters began the delicate job of checking.

The task was delicate for one special reason. If the President had been taken to the hospital secretly and did not want the fact known, knowledge that a news agency was checking could cause many official news sources to dry up immediately.

Inside the bureau office, reporters checked with the hospital. Here again was a tough journalistic nut to crack. If the President were a secret patient, the hospital probably would do all in its power to squelch any rumors to that effect.

Therefore, the journalistic job was to seek out stray bits of information such as whether there had been any unusual vehicular traffic out of the White House grounds that morning; whether the President had come to his office from his residential quarters (which he had not when the rumor started).

Suddenly the rumor collapsed as swiftly as it had risen. Almost within the same minute, the White House reporters telephoned the bureau to say that Johnson, looking hale and hearty, had strolled into the west wing of the White House and chatted with newsmen on the way to his office; and the presence of the "FBI men" at the hospital was explained.

The big stock market collapse triggered only a week or so before the hospital incident seemed to defy rational facts.

Brokerage offices began receiving calls asking variously whether Johnson was dead or about the severity of a rumored heart attack. Calls from Wall Street then began pouring into New York Press Associations and newspaper offices.

Quick checks with Washington proved the stories false. But this did not stop the market from taking one of its worst tumbles in years.

The difference in the two cases is this: The New York rumor, quite possibly planted to embarras the administration, shake national confidence or help investors in a position to profit from so-called short selling was in the public domain before it could be checked out.

On the other hand, the Washington rumor was tightly contained and never reached the public.

Rumors of presidential illness are somewhat recurrent, regardless of who occupies the White House.

Most rumors seem to start with half-heard conversations.

Decision Pending On Pope

Paul VI Not Decided on Visit to U.N.

Rome (AP) — Vatican sources said Sunday that Pope Paul VI had not yet made a final decision on a proposed trip to the United Nations.

The Vatican disclosed a month ago that the Roman Catholic pontiff had been invited to attend the U.N. general assembly by Secretary General U Thant.

Such a trip would be the first papal trip to the Americas, and it is generally assumed here that Pope Paul would be pleased to see President Johnson should the trip materialize.

Reliable sources at the Vatican have indicated that Pope Paul is weighing several factors before accepting or rejecting the invitation. These include the possibility that his acceptance of Thant's invitation might bring a flood of requests for visits to many countries. Vatican officials have been concerned that there might be disappointment because of the obvious inability of the Pope to accept every invitation.

Aside from the question of his accepting Thant's invitation there is some discussion here on the date and other details of such a visit.

Most sources at the Vatican feel any such trip should be be made early next year after the U.N. assembly's Christmas-New Year recess.

There have been reports he might go in October. However the fourth and final session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council will be meeting then. It is believed unlikely that the Pope would travel while the counucil is meeting.

Vatican circles believe the Pope might officially restrict his trip to the United Nations not going outside the New York area. These circles believe he would like to see President Johnson in New York but would not go to Washington.

Maine Fire Path Shifts

Whitneyville, Maine (AP) — Gusting winds shifting slightly to the north pushed a timber-fed fire away from threatened Maine communities Saturday night as the state's worst forest fire in 20 years raged out of control for the fourth day.

Directly in the path of the flames lay miles of virgin forest tinder dry from months of subnormal rainfall.

Some 500 firefighters, from as far away as New York and Canada battled the flames, aided by four airplanes which dropped water bombs into the midst of the fire.

The nine mile long blaze was moving in an east-northeast to northeast course after the shift in the wind. If it continued along its present route it would pass between several threatened towns.

Two of the towns—Northfield and Whitneyville—have been evacuated.

New Community Service Center Will Open for Tenants Monday

The Lincoln Center for Community Services, a gift to citizens from the Woods Charitable Fund, will come alive Monday as residents begin to move in.

Forerunner to the continuing stream of 21 community service organizations taking up residence in the 15th and N Sts. building will be the Lincoln Community Chest and Lincoln Community Council.

There are two reasons for the Chest and Council to initiate the building tenant parade Monday: the former is responsible for the building since it was leased to this organization for $1 for 99 years to manage and operate.

Secondly, the Chest and its staff of regular and volunteer workers must start preparations for the annual United Fund Appeal this fall.

"We need to get settled, be on hand as other organizations move in and get ready for the campaign all at the same time," emphasizes Chest Executive Secretary Willis Johnson.

Dedication and public open house of the Lincoln Center comes later, Nov. 21.

At that time, members of the Woods Family making up the Woods Charitable Fund officers here and in Chicago will be present to participate in the ceremony.

It is being planned by the Lincoln Foundation which received the Woods gift of $1.35 million to build and furnish the Lincoln Center. Lincoln Foundation, in turn, negotiated the lease with the Lincoln Community Chest.

In the final throes of completion, the building represents an example of the type of architecture being sought by civic leaders for the 15th St. link between State Capitol and University of Nebraska campus Historical Society building.

Lincoln Center exteriors are an aggregate concrete. So are walking malls on So. 15th and N St., areas which are outlined by low marble walls.

The main entrance, facing So. 15th, opens into a lobby of travertine obtained from the same Italian source providing the Sheldon Art Gallery interiors.

Five stories up there are east and west panoramic views from an auditorium seating 200.

There is a smaller auditorium for 75 on the north side of the first floor, plus south area offices for the Lincoln Foundation. Auditoriums are serviced by catering kitchens.

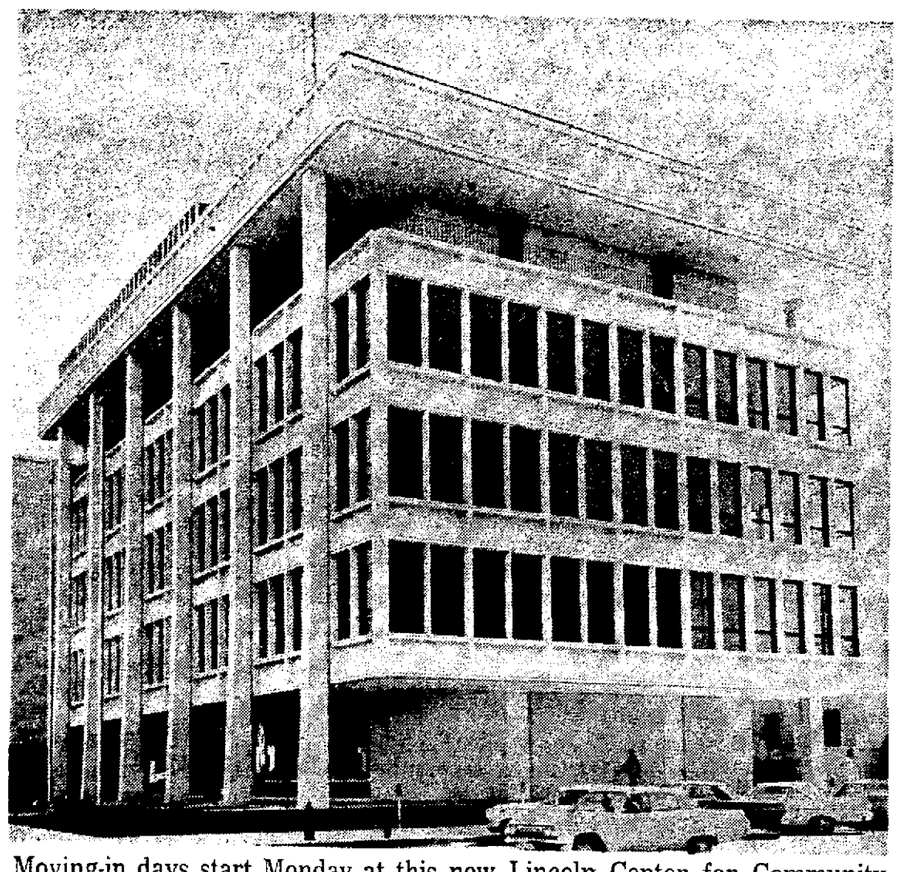
Both auditoriums are walnut paneled. Oak also is used, particularly on the nine-foot tall doors throughout the building.

The three other floors are designed for community organization occupancy. Each also is provided with two multi-purpose meeting rooms.

Seven service groups will be located eventually on the second floor: the Chest and Council, plus Camp Fire Girls, Alcoholism Information Center, Youth Employment Service, Nebraska Nurses Association, and Volunteer Bureau.

Third floor occupants will include Child Guidance Center, Council of Churches, Cancer Society, Heart Association, Mental Health Association, Multiple Sclerosis Society, Tuberculosis Association and Nebraska Lutheran Social Service.

On the fourth floor will be Girl and Boy Scouts, Veterans Service Center and the Catholic Social Service.



Moving-in days start Monday at this new Lincoln Center for Community Services Building.

Johnson said agencies generally will move in "one at a time. Moving in this week will be the Lincoln Foundation on Wednesday, the Nurses Association Thursday and the Veterans Service Center Friday."

Actual costs of operation of the Center under Chest direction will be shared by tenant organizations in direct proportion to the amount of office space occupied by each.

Johnson will have the help of a building committee, headed by Harry Seward, in the Center management.

"This committee will play a major role in determining our goal at the Center: to make it as useful to the total community as possible within appropriate guidelines," said Johnson.

Morrison Hopeful of Ft. Robinson Solution

Gov. Frank Morrison Saturday said he hopes a conflict over the use of federal and state lands at Fort Robinson can be resolved today during Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman's visit to Nebraska.

Morrison said he would give Freeman a report on the situation.

The governor added that he also will discuss with Freeman plans to transfer the beef research center from Fort Robinson to Clay Center and ways to improve the state's farm economy.

Freeman was to be honored guest at a reception and breakfast at 10 a.m. today at the Cornhusker Hotel here.

He is scheduled to go to Wilber at noon to take part in the Czech festival and to Shickley in mid-afternoon for an evening barbecue.

Governor Morrison said the immediate problem at Fort Robinson is "trying to preserve peace" between federal and state employes, and between scientific and recreational uses of the area, near Crawford.

The problem stems from the fact there are "two totally and completely incompatible uses for the same facilities," Morrison said.

Tourist promotion, the holding of conferences and conventions, and the development of places of historical interest in the area clash with the raising of cattle for beef research purposes, he said.

The governor said the Agriculture Department and the University of Nebraska, which cooperate in sponsoring the beef research program, have agreed on the need to move activities to the proposed new national beef research center at Clay Center.

Lincolnite Elected

DeMolay Picks Tom Siefken

Kearney (AP) — Tom Siefken of Lincoln was elected state master counselor of Nebraska Demolays at the annual convention.

He succeeds Roger Hobbs of York.

Bill Nelson of Kearney was elected the new senior counselor and Charles Baxter of Lincoln, junior counselor. Bill Dietrich of Grand Island is scribe-treasurer.

Lincoln also won the Demolay Degree competition.

Glenn Ryan, representing the Louis M. Keene chapter of Fremont won the Rose Degree competition.

The Demolays picked blonde Mary Beth Peterson, 17, of Columbus, as their state sweetheart.

She was crowned at the convention ball by the current sweetheart, Judy Tollefsen of Kearney.

Speaker at the banquet preceding the ball was Walter Miller of Omaha, a member of the International Supreme Council.

NWU Will Host Methodist Meet

More than 500 women from Methodist churches across Nebraska will meet here Aug. 16-20 for the annual Woman's Society School of Christian Missions on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus.

Theme of the school will be, "Mission: the Christian's Calling."

A series of study groups will discuss world and national missions, social action and the development of spiritual life.

'Angry' Boy Has Friends

Vandalism Victims Help

By DAVE TISHENDORF

An encouraging story of people getting together to help a boy in trouble was revealed recently in Lancaster Juvenile Court

The boy, 14, was brought into court after he admitted setting a fire in a home in southeast Lincoln and destroying property in another residence last April.

Lancaster Juvenile Judge William Nuernberger has found the youth delinquent and placed him on probation, but the story doesn't end there.

Practically everyone who knew the lad went to bat for hm. Neighbors called police while he was in custody and asked if there was anything they could do.

Even the man whose home the boy set on fire offered his help.

The boy is receiving psychiatric care and tests which show that he cannot control his anger.

"Everyone becomes angry at someone or something once in a while," Judge Nuernberger said, but most people can control it or else release their steam in a number of ways."

"Husbands will yell at their wives, wives will yell at the kids. It's when anger becomes a matter of personal revenge that it becomes a dangerous thing."

Such was apparently the case of this youth. He was a close friend of a 16-year-old boy, whose father owned the home that was set on fire.

He had known the 16-year-old since his early youth, but the older boy had his driver's license and the two were gradually growing apart.

When the older boy's father decided to go on vacation, he asked his son if he would like to take a friend along. The boy did, but he asked another 16-year-old to go with him.

Hurt and angered at the slight, the 14-year-old took his revenge the only way he knew how, by setting fire to his old friend's home.

The earlier incident involving property destruction was also a matter of personal revenge

The man whose home was set afire appeared in court the day the lad was brought in. He drew the judge aside before the session started and told the judge he held no ill will towards the boy and on the contrary, wanted to help him all he could.

The law, showing that it is not made for punishment only, has offered its help. The boy will be kept under psychiatric care during August and then will be brought back to the court for final disposition.

Special Meet Looms Over Long Session

Sometime within the next 10 days or two weeks—possibly even by next weekend—the longest legislative session in Nebraska history will groan to a halt.

But there is strong belief among many lawmakers that they'll be back in special session before the next regular assembly in 1967.

"I'd say the odds are about two to one in favor of a special session," Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said. "And if there's a special session, it probably will be either on reapportionment or taxes."

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, who has master-minded a recent "new look" at Nebraska's tax problems with a special session eyed as a possible outgrowth, said that even apart from this tax move, "I am just sure we'll be back."

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine isn't so certain.

One potential reason for a special session was removed with introduction Thursday of two bills to enroll Nebraska in the new federal medicare program which takes effect next July 1, Adamson noted.

The ranch area lawmaker acknowledged that legislative reapportionment could reassemble the senators, but a special session for any other reason would seem doubtful, he said.

"If there is a special session, it would probably be on reapportionment," agreed Sen. W. H. Hasebroock of West Point.

The fast fading current session is down to its last 30 bills out of 937 introduced, but the 30 include legislative reapportionment and a pair of consequential tax proposals.

Unicameral leaders see an outside chance that if no hitches develop, the session could end on Friday or Saturday of the coming week, but a windup on Monday or Tuesday of the following week is regarded as more likely.

The tax measures, the only two bills still on select file, are LB341 and LB906. Both would put constitutional amendments on the ballot next year, one prohibiting the state from levying a property tax except for revenue to construct buildings and make other capital improvements, and the other exempting life insurance policies and annuity contracts from intangible property taxes.

Action on LB341 and LB906 has been held up while legislators participate in a series of informal luncheon meetings with Omaha and Lincoln businessmen to discuss some long-range tax objectives.

The last of these luncheon meetings, arranged by Burbach, chairman of the Revenue Committee, is scheduled Monday noon.

Burbach has explained that some influential Nebraskans who traditionally have opposed sales or income taxes have become interested in reassessing tax problems as the result of legislative passage of the income tax bill.

The luncheon discussions, to which all senators have been or will be invited, have covered such possibilities as a general sales tax or combination sales-income tax, and possible repeal of certain personal property and intangible property taxes.

Out of the new look may come proposals which might require a special session before 1967, Burbach says.

"We do not have any preconceived plan for taxation in Nebraska, but we are groping for something."

Burbach said no new interim legislative council study of study the studies which al- taxes is needed.

"All we need to do is to ready have been made," he said.

Hospitals Viewing Medicare Impact

Administrators Predict Rise In Occupancy Under New Plan

By BESS JENKINS

"There's only one way it can go: up."

With this comment from a Lincoln administrator on the impact of Medicare on hospital occupancy a year hence, no other veteran in the profession will argue today.

Still another conclusion getting general agreement is the pattern of the impact:

The big load will come at the outset as the federal program starts, gradually leveling off. But it's never likely to drop down to pre-Medicare occupancy levels again.

Two individual comments point up these possibilities:

The big push will hit at the same time hospitals are going through "shakedown" experiences.

About the time this leveling occurs, Congress may decide to expand the program.

Opinions about the long-haul effects on state-community hospital and health services from this point are as varied as the individual "guessers."

With a reputation for longevity, Nebraska has more citizens 65 and over than the national 9% average of total population.

'Not Neglected'

This provides a ready-made source of cases for Medicare services under Social Security after next July.

On the other hand, Nebraska Hospital Assn. Executive Secretary Stuart Mount doesn't think older Nebraskans have been neglected to the degree likely in big population states and cities.

"I look for the big average patient occupancy rise to show up in smaller rural hospitals since many of our aged retire in these areas," he says.

This, he believes, will do what Social Security claims: Give a sounder economical base to these 25-bed and smaller facilities. He estimates their daily occupancy today may run about 50%.

William Heavey of Omaha, executive director for Nebraska Blue Cross-Blue Shield, agrees. He predicts a 20 to 40% occupancy increase in the rurals.

'Some Assistance'

"But from an overall view," Heavey said," the worst thing a hospital can do today is to assume there will be a long range impact on existing utilization."

Lincoln hospital officials are guessing a 3 to 4% increase from Medicare patients. These will be, in part, "the patients needing elective medicine not financially possible without seeking some form of assistance."

The local increase is predicated on statistics showing the aged census accounted for 23,747 of the 80,875 patient days of service provided at Bryan, St. Elizabeth and Lincoln General from January-to-June this year. This is 29.3%, forecast to reach 33 or 34% after next July.

Of the 9,788 paitents using the 80,875 days of hospital service in this period, 2,197 were 65 and over. They stayed an average 11.2 days in the hospitals here, compared with a national 14-day average.

Bothering Blue Cross' Heavey currently are reports of Omaha hospital expansion discussions above normal planning. His advice is to withhold the big decisions "until we have some experience on existing utilization."

Gradual Increase

Lincoln hospitals today see no need to expand beyond the community plan which will provide some 750 acute care beds in modern facilities. This, in turn, will produce substantial long term care beds from existing facility conversions.

But community health providers are watching a gradual occupancy increase in current months over last year's census. Even under pre-Medicare years, hospitals here have experienced temporary bed shortages. Medicare could aggravate this problem.

Between now and next July, Nebraska hospital administrators and staffs will be preparing for what some predict will be the "biggest hospital change in history."

Returning this weekend from a conference with Social Security program planners in Washington called by the American Hospital Assn., State Secretary Mount is ready to brief member hospitals at a series of district sessions Aug. 16-19. Lincoln's is the morning of Aug. 19.

Mount says such points as these will be aired:

Participation intent forms, giving hospitals an opportunity to nominate an administrative or fiscal intermediary to make disbursements for care. (Mount reports Blue Cross appears to be the favored insurance agent today).

Pay formulas to include depreciation and recognize cost of new patient care developments.

The importance of accounting systems for eligible participating hospitals, plus the Law Tangles Unsuspecting Weed Grower In New Anti-Growth Control Legislation

By RON GIBSON

The Involuntary Weed Growers of Nebraska caught one in the chops last week when the Legislature passed LB332, the noxious weed control bill.

"If the weeds could read this bill they would die," a fellow weed grower said to us when he read the new law. We read the law and almost wilted.

The law says anybody who knows noxious weeds are growing on his land and who fails to control or eradicate such weeds can be fined $100. This figures to include an awful lot of us.

Control is to be exercised through a county weed district board. Members of this body are to get $12 per day when on official business; all you have to do is to get on this board and you can earn enough to pay your fine.

Some Exempt

It's up to the State Director of Agriculture to say which weeds are noxious and which are not. As of now the Ag Department has the onus on 11 varieties of weeds it calls noxious, and six types it labels secondary noxious. Fortunately crabgrass and dandelions, the scourages of suburbia, didn't make the "most wanted" list.

You can get socked $100 for harboring greenery like musk thistle, field bindweed or male morning glories. Females are exempt, which is typical of the way things are going in our society.

If your local weed control superintendent looks the other way and fails to pinch you for breaking this law, HE gets plastered for a hundred.

This could lead to a bindweed bounty hunter system. Picture this: You're in the back yard, soaking up iced tea, reclined on the chaise. There is a rustle in the undergrowth and out pops a suave chap in a hunting coat.

"Who are you?" you ask.

"Call me 007," he says. "You're under arrest."

"For what?" you exclaim.

The suave guy snaps the top off of what you thought was a flower your wife planted. He says through clenched teeth:

'This is Scotch thistle!"

"Look, Double-O Seven," you say. "Why not let it go this time? After all, I have a wife and kids."

"Sorry," he says. "If I don't get you, THEY get me."

So you wind up in court. The best way out, as we see it, is to plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court. The judge speaks:

"Your record is a long and dirty one, I see. Two burr ragweed convictions, one for leafy spurge, then Johnson grass, and now this. I'm afraid I'm going to have to give you the maximum."

"Wait, your honor. I've had some tough breaks. I grew up in a poor neighborhood and we never had any money for 2-4-D. My old man made me dig dandelions, so I grew up hating the job. Then I fell in with a bad crowd. When I was a teen-ager, we used to go around pulling bluegrass so dandelions could grow.

Work It Out

"After I got married we had a yard and I tried to go straight but I couldn't kick the habit. I love crabgrass. The neighbors used to get on me, but I couldn't help myself. Before I knew it I was hooked on dock and horse nettle. I even let Russian knapweed grow in the petunias but somebody turned me in to the Garden Club and the FBI."

"I can see you are far down the primrose path," the judge says. "If you can't pay the $100 fine, you'll have to work it out in jail."

"Doing what, your honor?"

"Well, I suppose you could pull bindweed on the Courthouse lawn."

Omaha Attorney Speculates That Reapportionment Plan Won't Work

By DEL SNODGRASS

An Omaha attorney who has successfully fought the Legislature over the Unicameral redistricting issue said Saturday the reapportionment plan slated for final reading this week probably is unacceptable

August Ross, counsel for individual members of the State AFL-CIO, said the Legislature made so many changes in the bill recently that he has not ssen the final version.

But on the basis of information provided him by The Sunday Journal and Star, Ross said the 19% variance between the districts with the smallest and largest populations "presents serious problems."

He indicated that, if LB925 in its present form is passed, he will return to Federal Court in an effort to have the bill declared in violation of the U.S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote edict.

Despite the apparent lessening of support for LB925 in the Unicameral last week, supporters of the measure were predicting over the weekend that the bill will get the necessary 25 votes to pass.

Last Chance

Backers of the bill reasoned that, even though some senators have serious reservations about the plan, they will vote for the measure because it is their last chance to enact a new redistricting law.

Other legislators, however, were not so sure the bill will pass.

If this proves to be the case, the only alternative might be to give the attorney general the green light he wants to proceed with a Supreme Court appeal of a lower court decision striking down the session's earlier reapportionment effort, LB628.

LB925, as it now stands, would create a 49-member Legislature whose members should, theoretically, represent 28,802 inhabitants.

The largest district would be the 15th composed of Dodge County with a 1960 population of 32,471, or 12.7% above the average.

The smallest district would be the 43rd (Sheridan, Cherry, Grant, Keya Paha, Brown and Rock Counties) with a population of 26 938, or 6 4% below the average.

The disparity between the 15th and 43rd districts would be 5,533, or a 19.1% spread.

The plan would cross seven county lines—Cass, Otoe, Gage, Pierce Hall, Scotts Bluff and Harlan

Ross said Saturday a 15% maximum disparity between lawmaker districts with the smallest and largest population totals has been mentioned as a permissible variance.

Select File

For this reason, he doubted LB925 would comply with the Supreme Court's decision that state legislatures must be apportioned solely on the basis of population.

An effort could be made next week to return LB925 to select file for amendments to equalize the population among the districts.

But such a move would require either the crossing of additional county lines or reducing the membership of the body.

Neither solution would gain much support since any plan along those lines would step on some senators' toes by carving up their present districts or forcing them out of office.

Following are the proposed new districts and their population totals:

Thousands Enliven Wilber As Czechs Stage Festival

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Wilber—The one sure way to estimate the crowd at the fourth annual Nebraska Czech Festival was to borrow the formula of former State Fair secretary Ed Schultz:

"Count the legs and divide by two."

If such was impossible on main street, just off it was more so Saturday night. Seemingly every cafe booth was filled; lines awaited the hot kolaches; there wasn't an empty bar stool in town.

Mrs Walter Baer, president of Nebraska Czechs, "counted" 5,000-8 000—but admitted her method was to scale down the guesstimate of her husband. He figured it at 8,000-10,000.

"Anyway, we're expecting many more than that total for (Agriculture) Secretary Orville Freeman's visit Sunday" she predicted

The cabinet member is slated for a festive 1:30 parade ride, prior to his dedicatory address. Freeman will share the platform with Gov. Frank Morrison and Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., as Saline County recognizes 100 years of Czech settlement.

Side attractions, incidentally, are adding much to the ethnic-themed two-day show. An art exhibit, Lincoln's Oldtime Fiddlers, a turbine Chrysler that burns "about everything but Czech beer" —they're only a handful of the non-Czech highlights.

Polka bands, beseda dancers, contesting accordionists and tandem bicycles are also enlivening things. A colorful parade which attracted nearly 100 entries Saturday should even expand in its re-run.

Grand prize winner in the first parade was a blacksmith scene by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Other first places of the four categories Wilber Garden Club, lodges and organizations; Methodists, schools and churches; Altman's Garage, commercial; and Roger and Jeanette Maas, individuals and couples.

Indications that pleasant weather may help this year's festival toward a record attendance came from extremely busy business people. Cafe operator Mrs. Henry Diedrich, for instance, nodded to a staff more than doubled and said the duck-dumpling dinners "are going lots faster than in the past years."

Today's festivities include motorcycle races and a SAC band concert after the parade, followed by the heralded All-Nebraska Czech Spectacular at 4 p m.

The annual Czech Pageant at 8 30 is another feature, sandwiched between such pleasantries as beseda and accordion entertainment.

Susie Kunc, an 18-yar-old, five-feet-three University of Nebraska freshman, was named Nebraska Czech Queen.

The University's new Golden Girl, the Wilber blonde twirled double fire batons and machetes as her tallent.

First runner-up was Ellen Hladky, 21, of Seward, a University junior, who played a piano solo.

Second runner-up was Joyce Piskac, 18 of Omaha, a Wayne State College student, who sang and played the flute for her double talent.

Ogallala Youth Win

On Community Achievement

Development of a junior achievement program and writing a history of their county won the Ogallala youth delegation the title of "Outstanding Youth Community of the Year"

The award was presented at the final banquet of the Nebraska Conference of Youth.

Nebraska Council of Youth chairman, Susanne Plum, presented the awards and told the delegation she felt they had earned the award "after many years excellent service to their community."

Awards were also presented to runner-up communities Lincoln and Minden.

Miss Plum said this was the first year that Lincoln had been "properly represented" at the conference.

Prior to this year Lincoln did not have a youth board.

Minden was cited for its active participation in promoting NEBRASKAland.

Other outstanding Nebraska Youth Communities are:

Sidney—Aid in attracting the new trade school at Sidney.
Hastings—Promotion of a Youth Employment Service
Norfolk — Newly-formed inter-city dance program.

Church Tax Status Up To Judge

20 Catholic Sites Covered

By DAVE TISHENDORF

The decision regarding the tax status of 20 Catholic establishments in Lancaster County now rests solely on the shoulders of Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele.

Involved is the bishop's residence of the Lincoln diocese at 1040 Crestdale; the Motherhouse for Marian Sisters and the Retreat House, both northeast of Lincoln near Waverly; and nine convents and eight rectories throughout the county.

All of the establishments have filed appeals in district court in an attempt to get reversals of the County Board of Equalization decisions to place their property on the tax rolls.

Judge Scheele last Wednesday heard final arguments from attorneys representing the properties and now will make a ruling on the cases.

Courthouse Call

'Admiral' Scheele

Speaking of Judge Scheele, don't be surprised someday if you should walk into his courtroom and hear a sharp click of heels, a boatswain's pipe and see some snappy salutes as he approaches the bench.

The judge was made an admiral in Nebraska's mythical navy last Wednesday at a combined Organization of Police Services luncheon at which he spoke.

Admiral Scheele has been gigged a little about his new title but so far he has sentenced no one to walk the plank

Anniversary Memories

From the "40 years ago" column of a recent Pawnee Republican edition comes this little item:

"Arthur Davis, deputy county clerk, reports that the clerk's office has become a veritable menagerie or perhaps morgue the last week. The following pests have been presented for collection of bounty: 500 gophers, 33 jack rabbits, two crows, one chipmunk. The bounty on jack rabbits is 5 cents per head and on other game, 10 cents."

Davis, now Lancaster County assessor, said the Pawnee County farmers used to bring the game in in cereal boxes.

More pleasant memories of 40 years ago were experienced by Davis and his wife, Elsie on their 40th wedding anniversary last Thursday. They met in Pawnee County when he was deputy county clerk and she was deputy county treasurer.

Building Plans

Architects from the firms of Clark and Enersen and Hemphill and Vierk have been contacting the various county department heads in an effort to determine how much space the offices will need and to work out other details for the voter-approved city-county building.

Latest development on the building, still very much in the embryonic stage, occurred last Wednesday when city and county officials asked the architects to reallocate first floor space in the $5 million complex and to study further the location of joint jail facilities

An idea floating around the county commissioners office calls for putting April 7 editions of The Lincoln Journal and Lincoln Star, which bannered the passage of the building bond issues, in the cornerstone of the new structure.

Omaha Rector To New Post

Omaha (UPI) — The Rev. E. William Pounds, whose family figured tragically in the June, 1964, Omaha flood, has a new church assignment.

Effective Sept. 1, Fr. Pounds will become rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Columbus and also of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church at Schuyler.

In 1964, Fr Pounds lost his first wife, Sharyn, and an infant son in the flooding which claimed six lives. Mrs Pounds was attempting to find safety for the child when floodwaters near her home swept them away.

Fr. Pounds remarried this past spring.

Staffing Is Problem

required utilization committee.

Widespread publicity that aged with health insurance coverage not give up this protection before Medicare begins in July and its limitations are thoroughly understood.

Mount, less concerned than some individual hospital administrators about future personnel needs, said this problem, "which we've always had, will be discussed. I believe the answer lies in increasing our training programs and growing availability of federal student aid."

In Heavey's opinion, hospitals must concern themselves about the staffing of Medicare's home nursing care provisions.

Another big hospital job seen by Heavey is the responsibility of close affiliation with nursing care homes to which hospitalized patients will be referred, once this January, 1966, Medicare benefit goes into effect.

Planners To Study Sidewalks

Amendment Tops Agenda

A proposed amendment to the land subdivision ordinance in order to conform with the City Council's sidewalk resolution heads the City-County Planning Commission agenda for its meeting Wednesday.

The amendment deals with bonds for sidewalk construction completion and specifications where waiver of sidewalk requirements are permissible when the lots are one or more acres in size.

The only other item on the agenda for Wednesday concerns an amendment to the requirements on Colonial Acres 2nd Addition preliminary plat. A motion to approve the amendment requiring individual septic tank sewage systems failed to carry on a 4-2 vote at the previous meeting and it was agreed to lay the matter over until Wednesday.

The Commission asked at that meeting Lester Sanger of the Health Department be present at the next session to answer quesions.

Action on the Vanice Pontiac-Cadillac re-zoning application for 70th and O Sts. in order to locate a new and used car agency and service department on the northeast corner was deferred until July 25. A motion recommending denial of the change of zone failed at the last meeting for lack of a quorum.

Deferred until Sept. 8 is a public hearing on the City-County Planning Commission's flood-plain resolution regulating flood-plain development, based on a study by the Corps of Engineers.

Creighton Housing Unit Open

Creighton — Bruce Park Terrace Creighton's low income housing project for the elderly is now partially open and nearly a dozen of the 40 units are occupied

Bruce Park Terrace located at the west edge of Creighton was financed by a federal loan through the Public Housing Administration to the Creighton Housing Authority. The cost is approximately half a million dollars

The units range in size from alcove-type bedroom off the living room, plus the kitchen, to full two-bedroom units. Most of the 40 units have a separate bedroom, living room and kitchen.

The project includes seven buildings with living units plus a community building. The latter has one large meeting room with kitchen, laundry facilities and the office of the executive director Mrs Dale Hilkemeier

The formal dedication and open house will be held this fall.

Ancient Train To Run Again

Whippany, N.J. (AP)—Children in this area who have never had the opportunity to ride behind a real steam engine and railroad buffs who yearn for that old puff, puff of a locomotive are getting a break.

A 1907 steam-powered engine pulling four coaches, vintage 1915, and a 1923 caboose, will cruise the four-mile run of the Morristown & Erie Railroad between Whippany and Morristown as a "Sunday Only Special."

The new Morris County Central Railroad Corp. fulfills a lifelong dream of its president, Earl R. Henriquez-Gill, a railroad buff who bought the 120-ton engine and other ancient rolling stock.

Closed Circuit TV Set For Nurses' Course

University of Nebraska College of Medicine's closed circuit television to the Norfolk State Hospital will be utilized this fall to give nurses in both Omaha and Norfolk areas a course on "Human Relations."

Registered nurses attending the Omaha series of seven Saturday morning sessions beginning Oct. 2 will hear on-the-spot lectures.

Those gathered in Norfolk will get the same sessions simultaneously over the medical campus-Norfolk State Hospital television hookup.

Miss Irma Kyle, director of the Nebraska School of Nursing and course coordinator, said it is geared for nursing service personnel but also appropriate for any registered nurse in a supervisory position.

With Dr. Richard Bourne of the NU College of Business Administration as lecturer the Saturday sessions will continue through Nov 13. They are sponsored by the medical college, school of nursing and the Nebraska State League for Nursing.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

S. H. Brauer Jr. of Stuart, executive secretary of the Nebraska School Improvement Assn. (NSIA), has been accused of using the small school fight as a means of perpetuating his job. In a recent NSIA bulletin, Brauer said State Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, Education Committee chairman, was overheard telling educators Brauer wants the educational service units bill before the unicameral killed because Brauer would be out of a job if it passes.

What Rasmussen said is half true, Brauer said. If LB301 passes, he explained, "there will be no need" for the NSIA "and as for myself, I would resign."

Researcher Lauded

Betty Person, research employe with the legislative council, has performed above and beyond the call of duty in working with newsmen on the legislative reapportionment bill. Every time the Legislature amended the bill by shifting counties or parts of counties from one district to another, Mrs. Person updated the redistricting map. The assistance greatly aided reporters in telling their readers what was being done on reapportionment.

Birthday Joke

When the Legislature observed Clerk Hugo Srb's 65th birthday last week, Srb's emloyes played a trick on him. They put a trick candle on the cake admist the other real candles. Puzzled, Srb blew out the candle three times, but each time it re-ignited Srb finally discovered the joke and joined in the laughter

Tourist Attraction

Gov. Frank Morrison made a hit with a Temple City, Calif., couple when he personally greeted tourists at a wayside area on the Interstate highway. The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Johnson, took a snapshot of the Governor and his driver, Sgt. Del Whitefoot, and sent a print back to the Governor with their thanks.

Functions Shunned

As was expected, Republican Congressman Glenn Cunningham of Omaha skipped last week's testimonial dinner in Omaha honoring GOP national committeeman Donald Ross. Cunningham leans heavily on the South Omaha Democratic labor vote and rarely shows up at GOP functions.

City-County Building Tangles Still Hang Fire

By LEO SCHERER

Around City Hall

Don't let anyone tell you there aren't problems remaining relative to the proposed city-county building.

There are many far-reaching decisions still to be made regarding allocation of building space and location of different facilities.

City officials and county commissioners have been getting along well on aspects of the building and if this relationship continues some explosive problems might be solved without incident.

A big problem now facing both the city and county is additional space requirements being asked by county officials.

Recreation Plans

Watch for major changes next fiscal year and in the future in the city recreational program.

Recreational Supt. Robert Dula has hopes of expanding city services and wants to get this department moving ahead.

Much of future recreational projects could depend on the outcome of a national recreational study for Lincoln which should be completed during fiscal 1965-66

James Ager, now acting parks and recreational superintendent, also is highly interested in recreation and hopes to be able to spend more time now on it under the new reorganization of his duties.

Budget Study

There might be some changes in procedure next year concerning when the City Council gets the mayor's city budget proposal.

Some councilmen felt they didn't have enough time to study the budget this year and had to hold some lengthy sessions during the last week.

However, City Finance Director James Mallon had budget information to Councilmen five days prior to their first budget meeting.

The Council spent more time this year debating minor cost items than in past budget sessions.

One-Way Plans

It should be interesting to see what happens next on a one-way street pattern for downtown Lincoln

The City Council has told the mayor it wants it put into effect immediately but the mayor said he doesn't think the city is ready.

There are two one-way street plans available. Estimates are it wouldn't cost much money to put either into operation.

Lincoln now has parts of a one-way system involving 16th and 17th, 9 and 10th and K and L.

Omaha School Official Shelves Building Plans

Omaha (AP)—Eugene Agee Jr. of the C. E. School of Commerce said he has decided to shelve at least temporarily plans to build a new facility

He blamed "trade school hysteria."

The business school general manager said plans had been drawn and work was to start next month on a two-story school structure at the southwest corner of 31st Ave. and Dodge St.'

The private school now has a downtown location. It has about 500 students.

Agee said "the Legislature evidently plans to set up vocational schools in every hamlet at public expense." He criticized the Nebraska Dept. of Education for "inability to have private schools participate in the Federal Manpower Training and Development Act program as is being done in surrounding states.

Nebraska Commissioner of Education Floyd Miller has said there is a question whether making grants to private schools would violate the state constitution.

School Board Meets Tuesday

The Lincoln Board of Education will meet Tuesday, 8.30 a.m., at the Public Schools Administration Building.

Among items of business to be considered are:

Report of LEA insurance committee involving employees' health and accident insurance.

Applications for freeholders' petitions. Two petitions requesting change of school district boundaries of accredited and non-accredited high school districts.

School crossing for Riley School. Consideration of arrangements with the City of Lincoln and the Missouri Pacific Railroad for a school crossing over railroad tracks south of the school playground

Bids and proposals.
Claims and accounts.
Personnel.

Special Sound System Installed at NU Museum

A new dimension in education and enjoyment of the University of Nebraska State Museum will begin for visitors today with the introduction of a special sound system for 50 exhibits.

Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, museum director, said the new sound system, designed to provide visitors with an authoritative, spoken commentary on museum highlights, is one of the most important improvements of the museum in recent years.

The sound system and its free use for all school groups in Nebraska and surrounding states was made possible by a grant from Mr. and Mrs. George Lincoln of Lincoln.

The system, designed to provide different educational messages on the elementary and adult levels, operates with individual earphones that can be carried from exhibit to exhibit. Teachers with school groups will carry a small loudspeaker and can select either the adult or elementary messages at will. A push of a button near the exhibits starts the associated spoken commentaries.

In addition to the sound system, an audio-visual device which flashes color slides on a screen accompanied by a spoken message, is also being introduced. The device was made possible through a donation by Mr. and Mrs. William Norris of Minneapolis, Minn.

Visitors other than school groups may use the special earphones at a nominal charge. They are obtainable at the museum's information center near the main entrance.

2 Killed in Iowa Guard Plane Crash

Watkins, Minn. (AP) — Two occupants of a light plane — believed to be from the Iowa National Guard — were killed Saturday when the plane crashed and burned in a muddy corn field 1½ miles northeast of Watkins in central Minnesota.

The Meeker County sheriff's office confirmed that the plane was from the Iowa Guard. Iowa's 34th Division is in training at Camp Ripley.

The victims were not immediately identified.

A person at the scene said the plane had flown low over the area in heavy fog just before the crash. The wreckage burned.

The plane had barely cleared a small knoll when it nosed into the ground, muddied by about an inch of rain during the night.

Watkins is about 20 miles southwest of St. Cloud.

Father and Son Escape Injury In 15-Foot Fall

A Lincoln man and his three-year-old son escaped injury Saturday night after falling about 15 feet onto concrete, police said.

Officer Bob Jatczak identified the man as Donald J. Scanlon, 32, of 3733 Woods Ave., and his son, Danny J. 3.

He said a metal grating collapsed beneath them just outside Century House apartment house, 1201 J, when they were returning to Scanlon's car after visiting a friend next door to the apartments.

Scanlon saw the grating going out beneath the weight of his son, Jatczak said, and dived for him. Both then fell an estimated 15 feet.

Retired Groups Urged to Study New Fund Act

Members of the National Retired Teachers Assn. and American Assn. of Retired Persons in Nebraska have been urged to see what progress is being made on implementation of the newly passed Older Americans Act in Nebraska.

William C. Fitch, Executive Director of the two associations stated that the act makes $2,125 available to the state for programs for the elderly, of which the state can use $15,000 for administrative purposes.

The state's share is based on the population over age 65 on Jan. 1, 1965, which is estimated at 173,000.

The new act requires states to set up an agency to handle the funds. The funds will be distributed on the Federal level by the Administration of [illegible] under [illegible] Social Security.

Juvenile Court Sends Children To Grandmother

Five children from one family, ranging in age from two to seven, have been found neglected by Lancaster Juvenile Court and placed in their grandmother's home.

Probation officer Mrs. Helen Cox said although the children did not come from a broken home, their father's job kept him away a good deal of the time and there was evidence that the children had been beaten.

Other cases handled by the court:

Girl, 15, uncontrollable, placed under special supervision.

Boy, 14, destruction of property, delinquent and placed on probation.

Girl, 15, morals, placed under special supervision.

City's Budget Hearing Likely to Draw Crowd

By LEO SCHERER

If you don't like the proposed 1965-66 city budget, you can say so Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall. If you like it, you can say so, too.

The City Council has set a public hearing Thursday evening on the budget. City Finance Director James Mallon says he expects a good crowd.

Citizens actually will be considering two different budgets this fiscal year.

One is the mayor's proposed $45.6 million budget with a 24.10 mill levy and Council changes of a .65 mill increase.

If the mayor's budget and the Council changes, mostly additions, are approved, Lincoln's 1965-66 mill levy would be 24.75, or 2.35 mills over last fiscal year.

This means that Lincolnites would have to pay $24.75 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation during next fiscal year for city services.

City officials emphasized changes still can be made to the proposed budget after the public hearing.

Highlights of the mayor's proposed budget include:

Raises—Merit raises in the salaries of those city employes who have been recommended for raises by their supervisors.

Fire Department—A $675,000 central fire station at 18th and Q and a new $24,000 pumper.

Parks—City park improvements at 13 parks totaling close to $570,000.

Buildings — Street department building at Winthrop and South, $61,000; instructional pool at Woods Park, $45,000; and additional improvements at the city's sewage treatment plant at 22nd and Theresa, $1.1 million.

City equipment—A program of acquisition of new equipment for several departments, amounting to $511,575.

City-County Facilities — A sum of $2.8 million for the city's part of the proposed city-county building at 10th and J.

During lengthy budget sessions, the Council made deletions and additions that ended with an increase to the mayor's budget of .65 mill.

These are a few of the key Council tax-supported changes:

Parks—Added Belmont swimming pool, $87,000; additional salaries, $17,500; lighting for Woods Park tennis courts, $6,500 and lighting for Peter Pan Park.

Police—Added $36,960 for seven new policemen.

Recreation—Added $5,000 for preliminary planning for recreation center building and $3,200 for improving lighting at local ball diamonds.

Decreases—Took away $50,000 from land acquisition fund, $5,000 for mosquito control, $5,280 for one zoning inspector and reduced by $7,000 cost of a proposed street department building.

Others—Added $5,000 for an annual mayor's report, $7,500 for sample survey of senior citizens, $3,500 for city subsidy of street lighting in commercial areas and increased mayor's salary from $15,000 yearly to $16,500.

A group of northeast Lincoln businessmen might appear at the public hearing and request street and sanitary sewer improvements in their area so the Stevens Creek watershed can be opened to residential and commercial development.

Others reportedly will appear on city storm sewer needs, a new fireman pay plan and recreational needs.

The budget now contains no funuds for the proposed Northeast Diagonal, an $11 million project that has been cussed and discussed over a decade.

The budget, however, does have scheduled for next fiscal year the $850,000 Holdrege by-pass, 9th to 19th; and the Leighton spur, 44th to 48th.

Capital improvements by the city for next fiscal year amount to $18,887,163 and the budget takes into consideration the city's consolidation with Consumers Public Power District in the commercial electric field.

Lutherans End Session

Lincoln Girl Is President

A Lincoln girl, 17-year-old Cathy Hellweg, of 1421 Urbana, Saturday was named president of the Nebraska Walther League, youth group of the Lutheran Church-Missouri synod.

Dr. Preus

She was believed one of the youngest League state presidents ever elected in the nation. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hellweg.

Other new officers are Judy Moerer of Seward, treasurer; Scott Schutz of Verdon, lay member; and the Rev. Russell Howen of Norfolk, pastoral adviser.

All will serve two-year terms.

In the key address at Saturday's conference-closing banquet, Dr. J. A. O. Preus of Springfield, Ill., urged greater recruitment of church workers.

All churches have felt a shortage of trained lay and clerical workers, the president of Concordia Seminary said.

"As the proportion of people educated in public institutions increases, this problem of recruiting church workers becomes greater," he added.

The synod, which now has 6,000 pastors, "can use 500 more each year," he said, but is graduating only about 200 annually from its two seminaries.

On the newly-formed Lutheran Council in the U.S.A., an ecumenical group for Lutheran communions, Dr. Preus said, "I have high hopes this will bring us closer together."

Dr. Preus was a member of the committee that drew up the Council constitution.

An estimated 375 delegates attended the Walther League convention here.

City Tourney Opens Tuesday

Taber Defends Golf Title

By HAL BROWN

The standard sports adage says you have to go along with the champions and the 1965 Lincoln City Golf Tournament opening Tuesday is no exception.

In this case the champions are Matt Taber, winner in 1962 and 1964, and Charlie Borner, who captured the crown in 1963.

But the two are not taking the favored role lightly.

"You can't overlook (R. B.) Lau," Taber points out. "He's been playing in the big tournaments and he's playing pretty well."

Lau was a challenger for the state title until the final day and has competed well in the Trans-Miss and the Broadmoor Invitational.

"You've certainly got to consider Phil Breitfelder," Borner notes. "If he shoots like he did at York, he can win it. An there are several others who could win, like Larry Romjue."

Lincoln golfers have won all the major weekend tournaments held in the state this year and these winners will all be in the starting field Tuesday.

Taber won the Grand Island Tournament of Champions with a final round 66; Borner won the Governor's Sweepstakes last Sunday in a playoff over Breitfielder and Romjue after he tied them with a birdie on the closing hole; and Breitfelder won the York Open with a 65 in the final 18 holes that overhauled the leaders.

Matt Taber
Seeks Third Crown

Only three players have won back-to-back titles in the past 30 years and no one has won three straight city championships.

Dick Spangler Jr. in 1950-51, Bill Mowbray in 1952-53 and Gary Gruenemeier in 1960-61 are the only repeaters since H. R. Wilson won two straight in 1932-33.

Wilson twice won two in a row, accomplishing the feat first in 1929-30. Phil Aitken was a double winner in 1926-27 and Don Chapin won back-to-back crowns n 1924-25.

A victory this year by Taber would make the Lincoln lefty the seventh golfer in the 45-year history of the tourney to win two straight.

Four courses will be in use for the first time this year with Holmes, Pioneers, Hillcrest Country Club and Lincoln Country Club all in use. Play will be conducted over two courses each day Tuesday through Friday with the high-handicap golfers playing at one site and the low-handicap golfers at another course.

All golfers will play 72 holes for the first time, also. In the past, all flights but the championship were decided at the end of 54 holes.

The low hanicap golfers will begin playing at 8 a.m. each day, starting at the Lincoln Country Club and moving to Pioneers, Holmes and Hillcrest on successive days.

The high handicap entries will begin play at 8 a.m. Tuesday at Hillcrest, move to Holmes at 11:30 Wednesday, Pioneers at 11:30 Thursday and the Lincoln Country Club at 8 a.m. Friday.

A banquet will be held at 7:30 Friday night at the Hillcrest Country Club. Deadline for entries is 5 p.m. today.

In Big Racing Finale

Records Fall at Track

By JACK ANDERSEN

Records fell faster than horses ran Saturday at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds track.

While the horses were battling an off-track, the fans were busy setting new all-time attendance and betting records.

Most notable of these marks was a single-day attendance record of 8,321 and a single-day betting record of $367,995.

These figures went into making a season record of 112,676 persons and a mutuel handle for the year of $4,949,756.

Two other individual records were broken Saturday. These included the most money bet on a single race ($45,520) and the most money ever bet on a daily double ($45,590).

The mutuel handle average for the year was $215,206 for the 23 days. This was above the 1964 average which was $201,000 for 20 days.

Leading jockey Boyd Morris figured in the records as he rode 39 winners, a new all-time high in Capital City racing.

Among the horse winners was the fantastic Aquanotte from the M. H. Van Berg Stable. He recorded his second consecutive handicap victory.

Aquanotte won a week ago and tied the track record. He won again Saturday but didn't come close to the track record, although he won by six-lengths.

Another Saturday winner worthy of mention was Doc's Folly, a three-year-old gelding who was recording his fourth consecutive victory for owner R. W. White and trainer Robert Stillinger.

General Manager Henry Brandt, in his first year at the helm, was thrilled by the marks established during this racing season.

"I'm so darned happy, I don't know what to say," remarked Brandt after the final race was run.

"We broke four records today and set several yearly marks that make us all extremely happy and grateful.

"All of this possible because of the great cooperation from Racing Secretary Jack Fickler, the State Racing Commission and every person on my staff.

"And don't forget the wonderful people in Lincoln and the surrounding territory were really the ones who made all this possible."

Californian Wins Title

Akron, Ohio — Twelve-year-old Robert Logan who listed himself as from Santa Ana, Calif., where he won his local competition, but lives at Woodland Hills, Calif., won the 1965 Soap Box Derby championship Saturday as he outlasted nearly 250 youngsters who had qualified for the national competition.

The best showing by a Nebraska entry was by John Arkle of York, who posted the fastest time of the day (:27.04) and won two heats before being edged in a photo finish by Jay Huminski of Hammond, Ind. in his third race.

Arkle had the misfortune of drawing lane one in his third race and Huminski was in lane three, which produced most of the winning cars.

Lincoln's Chuck Lawrence won his first race, defeating Richard Malter of Utica, N.Y., and Douglas Elwall of Dover, N.H., but was defeated in his second race.

Wallace Brown of Hingham, Mass., edged Chuck by about two feet in the Lincoln entry's second trip down the bill.

U.S. Loses Golf Cup

Winnipeg, Man. (AP) — Canada scored 7½ points in the final singles matches late Saturday and wrested the Americas Cup away from the United States for the first time in the 16-year-history of the international amateur golf match.

Canada finished with a total of 22 points. The United States, which had won all seven of the previous biennial competitions, finished second with 19½. Mexico trailed at 12½.

Keith Alexander was the big gun in Canada's upset. He teamed with Nick Weslock to beat both their U.S. and Mexican rivals in Saturday's three-ball sixsomes, then scored two victories in the wind-up 18-hole singles matches of the two-day tournament.

The United States, led by Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., Mark Hopkins of Texas City, Tex., and Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla., scored eight of a possible 12 points in the singles,

Willie Goes On A Spree

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Mays clubbed his 28th and 29th home runs and drove in five runs as the San Francisco Giants whipped St. Louis 10-4 Saturday for their fifth straight victory.

Mays singled home the Giants' first run, snapped a 3-3 tie in the fifth with a two-run homer and hit another two-run shot in the seventh. Willie McCovey rapped his 25th homer, helping right-hander Bob Shaw gain his 12th victory.

The Chicago Cubs managed only three hits off New York pitching but two of them—a double and homer by Billy Williams — accounted for five runs in a 7-1 decision over the Mets. Williams doubled across two of four unearned runs in the fifth and smacked his 18th homer with two aboard in the seventh.

Homers by Don Mincher and Zoilo Versalles helped Minnesota's Jim Grant become the American League's first 14-game winner as the first-place Twins extended their victory string to four by overpowering Boston 9-4. Grant, who has lost only three, survived home runs by Carl Yastrzemski and Felix Mantilla.

A walk, J. C. Martin's fluke single and run-scoring hits by Don Buford and Floyd Robinson lifted the Chicago White Sox past Cleveland 4-3 in 10 innings. Third baseman Max Alvis tripped over the bag chasing Martin's short pop fly and it fell safely for the key hit in the Sox' winning rally after Cleveland had gone in front in the top of the 10th.

Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 4-3 behind relief ace Al McBean, who worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the fifth and stopped the Phillies on one hit thereafter. Bob Bailey and Roberto Clemente homered for the Pirates as they snapped Philadelphia's three-game winning string.

Houston's Dick Farrell blanked Milwaukee 4-0 on four hits, ending the Astros' losing streak at four games, in the other afternoon action.

Jim Landis cracked a three-run homer in the seventh inning, capping a six-run rally that carried Kansas City to a 7-4 victory over Baltimore Saturday night.

The loss dropped the second-place Orioles 7½ games behind American League-leading Minnesota, giving the Twins their biggest lead of the season.

Four consecutive walks by Cincinnati's Sammy Ellis plus Don Le-John's two-run single highlighted a four-run first inning that triggered the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-3 triumph over the Reds Saturday night.

Relievers Hal Reniff and Whitey Ford combined to pitch out of a two-on, none-out jam in the ninth inning, saving a 6-5 victory for the New York Yankees over Detroit.

Willie Kirkland's two-out single in the 11th inning drove in Joe Cunningham, giving Washington a 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

Cunningham led off the inning with a single, was sacrificed to second and moved to third on a fly ball before Kirkland singled to center.

Notre Dame's Knute Rockne Boasts Best Coaching Mark

By BOB HOOBING
Boston Herald
Written for The Associated Press

Knute Rockne represents the ultimate in college football coaching success 35 years after his last Notre Dame team took the field.

Okay, his locker room orations to "win one for the Gipper" are passe. But as a man who could lure talent, get the most out of it and organize a winner there's never been anyone quite like the raw-boned Norwegian immigrant.

In fact, the only coach who approaches Rockne's record played tackle for him — Frank Leahy.

The two stand far ahead of the field in the all-time rating of major college coaches who plied their trade more than a dozen years. Another pair who crack the top 10—Frank Thomas and Sleepy Jim Crowley—learned what they taught the hard way under Rock.

Just prior to his untimely death in a plane crash, Rockne whipped his famed Shock Troop teams of 1929-30 through a 19-game unbeaten streak. For his 13 years at the helm, the record shows 105 victories, 12 losses and five ties for an .897 percentage.

Leahy was 107-13-9, .892 over a similar span at Boston College and Notre Dame and boasted a 39-game unbeaten string with the Irish. At South Bend he turned out six unbeaten clubs to Rockne's five but the latter was more consistent.

The late Gen. Robert Neyland of Tennessee occupies the third position because he devoted 21 seasons to building Vol greatness on sweat and the single wing. His .848 batting average is only .003 ahead of the one posted by Fielding Yost, the fast-talking, wise-cracking West Virginian who made Michigan—Point-a-Minute teams and all—the power of the West.

Jock Sutherland, the silent Scot; Percy Haughton of Harvard fame and Bud Wilkinson, who left the Oklahoma sidelines only last year, are tightly bracketed. Then comes Thomas, dour Gil Dobie and Crowley, member of Notre Dame's illustrious Four Horsemen backfield.

Dr. Henry Williams, the Yale man who started something big at Minnesota, and current Mississippi maestro John Vaught complete the leading dozen.

Although he devoted a lifetime to the game, Yale's Walter Camp does not qualify. Listed as an advisor much of the time, he was actually a coach of record only eight campaigns when he rang up an astounding 79-5-3, .940 mark.

Howard Jones was king of the bowl games, his Southern California legions winning five-for-five in post-season play.

In the most-victories category Pop Warner shaded Amos Alonzao Stagg, 316 to 311. Mexico State's Warren Woodson is third at 217, Jess Neely of Rice next at 203 while just-retired Dr. Eddie Anderson had 201.

Tony Lema . . . helping a putt home.

Lema Captures Lead In Philly

Whitemarsh, Pa. (AP)—Champagne Tony Lema, recovered from an aching back and dosed with pills for an ailing shoulder, shot a five-under-par 67 Saturday and grabbed a one-stroke lead after 54 holes in the $125,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 31-year-old Lema emerged the leader with a 207-nine under par-after three rounds of the 72 hole competition in a see-saw battle with the veteran Doug Sanders, Masters Champion Jack Nicklaus, and rookie Dick Sikes.

Sanders, who by his own admission was leery of even qualifying until he caught fire on the back nine Friday, scored a 35-32-67 for a total of 208, and a tie with Sikes, leader of the first two rounds.

Sikes, a pro only 14 months and a former NCAA champion, slipped to a 73.

Nicklaus, the big, blond Masters champion, had a 35 going out but fell apart on the homecoming nine, finishing with a 73 and 209, putting him alone in fourth place. Randy Glover of Florence, S.C., and Joe Campbell each had a 210. Seven others, including U.S. Open champion Gary Player, were grouped at 212.

Lema, insisting he was not playing as well as he was scoring, carded six birdies, canning putts of 6 and 12 feet on the first and second holes, reaching the green in two and two putting for a bird on the par five fifth, notching a 10-footer on 10, a 6-footer on 16, and cutting a stroke off par on the 17th.

Sanders punctuated his fine round with an eagle three on the 515-yard 17th where he reached the green in two and holed a 14-footer, and a birdie on 18, chipping in about 50 feet.

The 25-year-old Sikes complained of being tired, bothered by the 88-degree heat and was a little irked at times waiting to play through.

Marlene Hikes Milwaukee Golf Margin With 72

Milwaukee (AP) — Veteran Marlene Hagge fired a third round par 72 lengthening her lead to seven strokes in the fourth annual Milwaukee Jaycee Open Saturday.

Clifford Ann Creed, Alexandria, La., only a stroke behind Marlene after two rounds, rocketed to 78, leaving her in a distant second place tie with Marilynn Smith.

Marlene, 31, who was in a strong position to break the tournament record of 287 set by Kathy Whitworth in 1963, had a two-under-par 214 for the first 54 holes. The tournament concludes Sunday.

Marlene, a Pensacola, Fla., veteran of 15 years on the tour, had two birdies, two bogies and parred the rest of Saturday's round.

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher
Sunday Sports Columnist

Chicago—Search any record book you want and you won't find a record for the broxiar jump It's an event they don't even have at a Junior Olympics track meet

But there's a chance it could turn out to be one of the most delightful athletic achievements in Nebraska sports history. Simply because the Cornhuskers have a guy who can do it.

"So what?" You say. You can do it, too. And so can any hobo

Maybe so But you probably never woke up in a hospital room, groggy from sleep and drugs to read where you might never be able to do the thing you enjoy doing most—playing football for the University of Nebraska

Happened To Fred

This, of course happened to Fred Duda the classy little quarterback who opened the season there last year and had a great game against Minnesota after riding behind Dennis Claridge for a full season

Duda retold the unfortunate story here this week as he and NU teammate Walt Barnes, who also lives here, sat visiting with a couple of writers

He leaves you will the impression the thing he feels worst about is that somebody had doubts about his ever playing following the clean but crippling tackle in the Iowa State game, the third outing of the season for the Cornhuskers.

For six months Duda wore either a cast or a brace, never giving up an idea that the badly damaged left lower leg would heal In spring ball he did some light work and some running

A Railroad Man

Then this summer, in between working for the railroad and taking three hours in night school, Duda has been working out more

"I've mostly just been running and doing some isometrics," Fred says "I've just been working out once a day. But now I plan to start working twice a day

"The leg feels fine. I've done some cutting on it and everything. I've even jumped out of box cars," he said, "and it doesn't hurt me a bit "

"Now I feel I just have one test and that's contact "

The first of that will come in one month as the Huskers likely will scrimmage the first Saturday after they begin practice and that will be Sept 1

Eager To Start

Fred is eager to get on with it. And he knows it's going to be tough for two reasons

First, he must regain the form he had before the injury in order to win a quarterback job And that brings up the second reason—Bob Churchich

Churchich, the Omaha junior, who came on to do such a great job of taking over the quarterbacking chores, isn't going to be dislodged easily.

The NU coaches probably won't consider any kind of an alternating situation which will mean the best man wins. And Duda agrees 100 per cent

"I think it's better if just one of us plays," Fred says.

"I don't expect it to be an easy fall camp. I expect it to be interesting "

'Skins Wallop Eagles

Hersney Pa (AP)—The Washington Redskins stunned the Philadelphia Eagles 37-0, in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday.

The crushing defeat was climaxed by a 99-yard touchdown pass from rookie Richie Badar to rookie Jack Dean.

The play was the low ebb of a bad day for the Eagles, who couldn't seem to get going until the final quarter when with the aid of a 15-yard pass interference penalty they moved to the Redskin one But the Redskin defense stopped two thrusts at the middle

The Eagles then fumbled for the fifth time and Washington recovered, also for the fifth time. Badar's pass to Dean, who snagged it on the 27 and raced another 73 yards for the score, caught the Eagles with their hands in their pockets.

Through most of the game and with Badar staying on the bench through the first three quarters, the Redskins' defense and the pinpoint passing of Dick Shiner spelled the difference.

Oilers Whip Jets, 21-16

Alexandria, Va (AP) — Don Trull, a high-priced bonus baby himself in 1964, stole the thunder from the highly touted Joe Namath Saturday night as the Houston Oilers dumped the New York Jets, 21-16, in a pre-season American Football League exhibition

Trull struck three times on long scoring passes, a 30-yarder to Charlie Frazier and 55-and 48-yard heaves to Sammy Wear, a 165-pound rookie flier from Arkansas State

The second scoring toss to Wier overcame a 16-14 Jet lead midway in the fourth period to wrap up the game

Namath, a $400,000 beauty from Alabama playing for the first time against AFL opposition, completed six of 14 passes for 110 yards

Brennfoerder and No. 69 . . . he's careful with it.

It's a Family Affair for Frank, Jean

He's Only No. 4, But After All, It's His Car

Frank Brennfoerder carries a wicked looking scar on his forehead, a constant reminder of his darkest day in auto racing.

Jean

But when visiting with Frank about racing, you never seem to notice the scar. Only his ever-present smile that indicates he is happy and always glad to talk about his favorite sport.

Car racing has been a part of Frank's life for a long time now. Eighteen years to be exact and he's only 36 He got an early start at the wheel, but like a lot of other things the success may be just beginning.

Brennfoerder is currently fourth in the point standings among drivers in the Nebraska Modified Racing Association

"Maybe I could be even higher," noted Frank. "But I own my own car and that slows you down some. You drive a little more careful when you own the car. You know that if you smash it up or ruin the engine you have to fix it yourself "

Brennfoerder can handle those repair chores just fine. He has been a mechanic even longer than he has been a driver. "I started working in a garage when I was only 13 and I've been there ever since."

Brennfoerder drove in Kansas for many years and he picked up that scar in a sprint car race at Kirksville, Mo. in 1959 He was hospitalized over a month and off work for over six months with a severe skull fracture

Racing is a family affair with Frank as it is with so many of the drivers He is secretary of the Nebraska association, but admits that his wife, Jean, does most of the related work and reporting

Jean could qualify as a writer as she submits stories every week for the Speed Sport News, a national racing publication. And it just so happens that the Brennfoerder's are area distributors for the publication.

And just recently Jean has also been working as a statistician with the racing group

Both husband and wife like the modified program here fine. "These are some of the best cars around," said Frank. "Many of these cars and drivers could compete anywhere."

As for Mrs. Brennfoerder, she looks at the safety angle. "After Frank got hurt I had some second thoughts about his return to racing," admits Jean. "But the cars raced here now are the safest going.

Frank and Jean have two daughters, Jennifer and Cindy.

Their car No 69 is sponsored by Harvey's Texaco and Harvey Traudt is one of the pit crew members The others include Bob Alley, and Ray Valasek

But Butkus Impressive

Most Valuable Honor To Huarte

Chicago (AP) — Quarterback John Huarte, Notre Dame's 1964 Heisman Trophy winner, was named most valuable All-Star football player Saturday by an overwhelming margin over linebacker Dick Butkus of Illinois.

Huarte, who inspired a rally after entering Friday night's game in Soldier Field in the third period that cut the winning margin of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns to 24-16, received 66 of 96 votes cast by newsmen covering the 32nd annual classic.

Butkus drew 27 votes. Single votes went to end Alphonse Dotson of Grambling; fullback placekicker Chuck Mercein, Yale; and safetyman Al Nelson, Cincinnati.

The 22-year-old, 180-pound Huarte of Anaheim, Calif., who set Notre Dame passing records last season, will be presented a silver trophy at halftime ceremonies of next year's All-Star game

Halfback Charley Taylor of Arizona State, who won National Football League rookie honors last season with the Washington Redskins, was the 1964 most valuable selection.

Huarte didn't get the quarterback call Friday night from All-Star Coach Otto Graham until 7½ minutes were gone in the third period.

By that time the Browns were bustling along with a 24-3 led.

In thunder, lighting and a downpour, Huarte capped two 80-yard drives with touchdown tosses. He completed nine out of nine passes for 132 yards in the streak.

Linebacker Butkus of Illinois, meanwhile, was in on 15 tackles and also blocked Lou Groza's fourth period field goal try

Why did Graham wait so long to unleash Huarte, the $200,000 property of the New York Jets who again must fight for a starting job against the club's $400,000 plum, Joe Namath?

Roger Staubach of Navy was Graham's starting quarterback and many game plans for wide open stuff went down the drain when Rog left the field with a shoulder injury early in the second quarter.

Graham chose California's Craig Morton as his replacement. Morton (Dallas Cowboys) directed an attack that gained only 12 yards in 15 plays

Another quarterback, Michigan's Bob Timberlake (New York Giants) was bunched on the bench with a sore elbow. Huarte got the call

"I know I'll be second-guessed for months," Graham said afterwards. "On the basis of practices and our scrimmage with the Chicago Bears, Huarte was third in our preferences for quarterback.

"Huarte is a great competitor and a take-charge guy. But he knew he was No. 3 on our list He's one of those players who is much better in a game than in practice "

Huarte praised the great support he had from his receivers and blockers, adding:

"I really don't think I deserved to get in before I did. I didn't have a good practice It's not that I held back I'm used to football in October and November and December It takes me a while to come around "

Butkus, who now joins the Chicago Bears, received accolades from the coaches, some of whom thought he might be the best All-Star player in 10 years.

"He's got to be the game's most valuable in my book," said Graham. "He's just great and gives you 110 per cent all the time."

If it weren't for Butkus, Cleveland's all-time NFL ground gainer, Jim Brown, might have swooped for 248 yards insted of 148

"Butkus is everything they say he is — fast and strong," said Brown 'I'm glad the game is over "

The Browns lost the services for possibly six weeks of former Ohio State ace Paul Warfield, their top pass-catcher last season. Warfield suffered a broken left collar bone in the first quarter.

He and Staubach, who had a dislocated left shoulder, were released from Alexian Brothers Hospital Saturday

Broncos Rally, 30-24

Denver, Colo (AP)—Fullback Cockie Gilchrist and the Denver Broncos came on like gangbusters with three touchdowns in the final period but it wasn't enough to overtake Kansas City as the Chiefs posted a 30-24 American Football League exhibition football victory Saturday night

Coaches experimented freely with Denver using 57 players and Kansas City trying out 51 in the workout before 17,077 fans.

Quarterback Pete Beathard, coming in after Len Dawson was lifted in the second quarter, engineered the first two touchdown drives for the Chiefs His two scoring passes and two field goals by Tommy Brooker shoved Kansas City into a 20-3 halftime lead

The Chiefs ran the margin to 27-3 before Denver's third quarterback, John McCormick, delivered a three touchdown salvo in the last quarter

Abner Haynes, a transfer from Kansas City, rambled 89 yards to Kansas City's five-yard line to set up the first Denver score.

Tommy Janik ran 22 yards on a fake punt with fourth and 10 to touch off Denver's last scoring drive

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Republican City—You can't beat a school of white bass for the schooling of a young fisherman.

A Fairbury 14-year-old, Bill Welch, had never taken a fish on an artificial lure until a Harlan Reservoir first a few days ago. One hour's education later, he had learned that:

(1) no one boy can keep accurate count of three fellows' catches.

(2) a silver of nearly two pounds can feel like 20 on light tackle.

(3) a beginner's stringer of 13 is several times as long as an oldtimer's that has only eight.

Beats Golfing, Fishing

"Boy, this not only beats golfing, this beats golfing and swimming both!" exclaimed the lad, midway through the surface-swarming school.

The remark also came at one of the several moments that he, this reporter and son Terry, 10, had our spoons attacked simultaneously. With the drags set loose for ultimate sport, line ripped freely from the three spinning reels.

The final count beat 30, about what Bill's golfer dad would term par for the course. Some anglers are doing better and some poorer, according to docksman Hank Henningsen — but best of all they'll have the next couple of months for their doing.

"The bass just started good the past two weeks and should hit clear 'til October," he predicted. "Of course some days are better than other, but there should be more and more good ones now."

Tasty Too

As tasty as they are scrappy, the silvers are attracting more anglers each summer. Henningson noted that one party of Texans recently drove 1,800 miles for the sport.

As usual, small spoons have been the best bait. Still to show up are the gulls which tattle-tale each summer on the schools of shad — also sought by the fierce-feeding bass.

"You mean it gets even better when the gulls come?" asked Bill. "We'll be back for another lesson."

Quail Up For 1965 Season

There's good news from Nebraska's quail hunters. Results from the 1965 bobwhite whistle-count survey indicate a statewide increase of five per cent in the quail population over 1964 and 42 per cent above 1963, the Game Commission reports.

In the 10 southeastern counties, which contain the best quail range, the population showed a three per cent decrease from the 1964 level. However, data indicate a good statewide population.

This year's count is 37 per cent higher than the past 19-year average.

No marked difference was noted between areas that received heavy snowfall this spring and those that had lesser amounts. Lancaster county, for example, had heavy snows but there was no change in the population. Saunders and Saline counties experienced bad weather the past spring, yet show 50 and 47 per cent increases.

This whistle-count survey measures only the breeding stock. The fall hunting population depends heavily upon the nesting success. Heavy localized rain and flooding could interfere with production in some areas.

Skeet Shooter's Heydey

Operation Outdoors

by Pete Czura

Watching the Nebraska Skeet Shooting Championship held in Lincoln a few days ago reminded us of what sissies some other sports fans are.

Even in a driving downpour, the shooters kept blasting at the flying rocks and tried every kind of device to keep their shooting eyes from being flooded.

But it was Mark Pinkerton, a 12-year-old lad from North Platte who caught our attention.

Like a polished veteran, Mark would keep knocking down the clay rocks, even when he occasionally missed an easy shot.

And kudo's should go to the group which shot with Mark, for giving him encouragement and spurring him to keep going after the birds.

Tough North Platters

North Platte sent some tough shooters to the Skeet championship, but the talk of the shoot Sunday was the way five chaps polished off the rocks.

That would be Ed Ahlberg, Dr. Verle Van Cleave, C. C. Pinkerton, Dan Reynolds, and Bob Bystrom, who out of 500 shots missed about 14 birds to become the champion.

One oldtimer, Bill Harder of Lincoln, who once used to be a perennial winner at all kinds of shoots, came back to the wars and engaged in the skeet shoot.

Harder always was a popular chap among the shooting fraternity, and it was good to see Bill flushing those rocks again.

Want It Over?

Dr. Verle Van Cleave was going great guns in the team shoot and didn't have a miss going into the last round of 25.

But like in everything else, tension began to mount, and Doc got too over-anxious on a bird from the high house and blew his perfect mark.

But who can sneeze at 99x100? Arnold Pomajl did too, but lost to Van Cleave in a shoot off.

Satorial Splendor

Shooters are like women at a fashion parade.

The way some come decked out—this is not meant to be derogatory—a fashion magazine photographer could have a hey day.

Take the nonchalant air assumed by R. R. Deitmeyer, the gun mogul. Instead of having his jeans hang loose over his boots, he had them tucked in like a Texas oil baron.

One of the swankiest shooting vests was draped on the broad shoulders of Gene Woodhead of North Platte.

Woodhead, a transplanted Lincolnite, donned a nifty jaguar vest, and shot just as fiercely.

Could Be Reason?

Maybe some of the male shooters at the Skeet championship won't admit this, but could it be that some of their misses came from watching certain Misses?

The Misses we refer to were the official scorers at the shoot, the three lovely lasses Karen Anderson, Roberta McMahon, and Carolyn Naimon, all of Lincoln.

You can't keep one eye on the flying rocks and the other on pretty lasses.

Embarrassing?

When Lee Chapin of Lincoln missed a few rocks, and watched Lila Pechous, of Lincoln, polish off the same shots without a miss, he grinned and said:

"It's embarrassing to have a gal—like Lila show you up at a shoot—especially with people watching!"

Wightman Cup Play Tied, 1-1

Cleveland, Ohio (AP)—British and United States teams each won a singles victory in Saturday's opening Wightman Cup matches. Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones upset the U.S. No. 2 player, Billie Jean Moffitt, 6-2, 6-4 in the opener, then Nancy Richey crushed Britain's No. 3 player, Miss Elizabeth Starkie 6-1, 6-0.

The 22-year-old Miss Richey, the U.S. top-ranked singles player, scored the most one-sided victory since 1950 in Wightman Cup competition. The Dallas, Tex., star sent strong forehands deep into the corners of the court and out of Miss Starkie's reach time after time.

Rodeo In Wahoo

Wahoo—The Wahoo Saddle Horse Club and the Saunders County Fair will sponsor the Wahoo Rodeo which will be held Aug. 25-28. Events will begin at 8 p.m. each evening.

Antelope Archery Season Opens

The 1965 antelope archery season, twice as long as last year, opens August 21 and runs through September 17.

This is Nebraska's second archery season on antelope. The entire state is open, but the pronghorn are found only in the Sandhills and Panhandle counties. One antelope, either sex, will be permitted.

Allowing bowmen to hunt pronghorn until the day before the antelope rifle season and grouse season was authorized to permit combination hunts.

Archery antelope permits are unlimited. Last season 29 were issued with six hunters successful.

Worm Is Turned

It doesn't take long for the worm to turn in big-time football circles these days with all major universities putting the sport on a business-type basis.

And as quickly as the worm turns, the monkey jumps from one back to another. A year ago, these words appeared in the Oklahoma brochure: "I think we'll have a good team, barring injuries," coach Gomer Jones said. "I don't know how many we'll win or lose, but we should have a good team."

This is when Oklahoma was the overwhelming choice to win the conference plum and Nebraska was picked somewhere down in the pack. At that time the Huskers were talking about rebuilding and maybe being better than people thought.

This year you could just reverse the names on the brochures and come up with the same things.

A week ago, Nebraska's press brochure rolled off the presses with Husker coach Bob Devaney taking the same stand Jones took at Oklahoma a year ago. "We should have a good team," Devaney said.

Now the Oklahoma press booklet arrives and Gomer Jones is talking like Devaney of a year ago.

"Although Oklahoma returns fewer starters this fall than any other team in the Big Eight conference, the coaches hope to build a hard-fighting team that will improve as it acquires experience," the press preview points out.

Plenty of Enthusiasm

Quoting coach Jones, the brochure notes, "From our defensive platoon we've had to replace both tackles, both ends, a linebacker, a secondary man and the safety.

"From our offensive platoon we've had to replace both tackles, a guard, the quarterback, a halfback and the fullback.

"We'll be using lots of inexperienced men in early season. How much they improve will be the key to the last half of our season. A lot depends upon the improvement of people who didn't play much last year, also of our new sophomores.

"Everybody had lots of enthusiasm and tried hard in spring practice."

Improvement Not Needed

Among the players who fall into the "didn't play much" category last year are a pair who ruined Nebraska's perfect season in the final game at Norman.

Husker coaches are hoping the Sooners don't get much better performances from Jon Kennedy and Larry Brown, a couple of backs who came in to replace injured performers early in the game and destroyed the NU's vaunted defensive "Black Shirts."

Jones has made more personnel switches for the coming season than an over-exuberant Little League coach.

Jones has moved guard Wes Butts and end Sammy Denton to offensive tackle; end Mike Burns and end Larry Crutchmer to defensive tackle; fullback Alan Henderson and halfback Robert Flanagan to defensive right end; quarterback Jimmy Linn to split end; split end Ben Hart to right half; left halfback Larry Brown to fullback and halfback Bob Stephenson to right cornerback.

Missouri and Nebraska

And just like everyone else, OU coach Jones is throwing his towel into the Missouri and Nebraska corners.

"Coach Jones believes that the conference will be better balanced than in some time," OU sports information director Harold Keith notes. "He feels Nebraska and Missouri are the top teams.

"But he thinks this is the year clubs like Colorado, Oklahoma State, Iowa State and Kansas State will shorten the gap between them and what have been the first division powers."

The Sooners meet Missouri and Nebraska in successive games with the Tiger game set at Columbia Nov. 13 and the Cornhusker game on national TV from Lincoln on Thanksgiving Day.

Entries Will Top 350 For Ogallala's Rodeo

More than 350 of the nation's best teenage cowboys will be on hand to compete for title honors this week at the National High School Rodeo Championship in Ogallala, the Game Commission reports.

Contestants from 20 states will converge on the Keith County Fairgrounds Tuesday through Sunday. The six-day event rates among the nation's largest rodeos in number of participants.

The rodeo parade starts at 10 a.m. Thursday. Some two dozen queens including Miss Nebraska, the Nebraska Wheat Queen, and the National High School Rodeo Queen will be in the parade. Queens and floats for each of the 20 states represented will also be on hand.

Kid cowboys will begin vying for the championship trophies at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Wednesday through Saturday there will be two performances daily, 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The final show will be Sunday at 2 p.m.

This national event is a first for Ogallala, and since it is held on a rotating basis, it will not return for 20 years.

Scrimmage Scheduled For Comets

The Lincoln Comets will conduct a scrimmage session at Sherman Field Sunday.

Coach Don Erway indicates that the 3 p.m. scrimmage will be filmed.

"This will be about the first time that we've been all together," Erway notes, "and we want to take a look at how we're progressing."

The only phase of the game which will be missing in the controlled scrimmage will be kicking.

Following today's workout the Comets will have three more practice sessions before they play the Kansas City Buffaloes at Fairbury Saturday night.

A newcomer to the Comets' roster is Californian Martin Murphy, a Nevada University player who has seen action in several professional leagues. He's being tested at an offensive guard spot.

Shrine Bowl Camps Open

Sixty-six of Nebraska's top high school football players will assemble in Crete and Fremont today and Monday to begin preparations for the seventh annual Shrine Bowl football game Aug. 21.

The North team will again conduct its drills at Midland College in Fremont while the South squad returns to Doane College in Crete.

South coach Art Bauer of Lincoln Northeast and North coach Crump Redding of North Platte each have less than two weeks to prepare their 33-man squads for the all-star clash at the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium.

Bauer's South squad will give away 10 pounds a man to the bigger North squad, which has a team average of 200 pounds.

Heavyweights in the North camp will be Virgil King of Lynch (6-3, 255), Sam Buda of Creighton Prep (6-5, 245), Gerry Hunter of Omaha Technical (5-10, 235) and Carl Ashman of Burwell (6-1, 240).

Each of the all-star teams will take one day off practice to visit the Shrine Hospital in Minneapolis, Minn. The South players will make the trip to Minneapolis Friday and the North team will visit Saturday.

The South holds a 4-2 advantage over the North in previous Shrine Bowl encounters.

Redding's assistants on the North coaching staff are Leonard Bond of Omaha North, Dennis Korinek of Wahoo and Hank Hart of Norfolk.

Bauer's assistants are Hank Reichel of Beatrice, Ken Reiners of Crete and Bill Hoyt of Omaha Westside.

U.S. Men Lead In Polish Meet

Warsaw, Poland (AP) — Irena Kirszenstein, a 19-year-old Warsaw University student, burst past America's Wyomia Tyus at the wire in the women's 100-meter dream race Saturday but the United States men's team bounded back for a 60-45 lead over Poland at the halfway point of their two-day track and field meet.

The Polish women led 33-28.

The long-striding Miss Kirszenstein, co-holder with Miss Tyus and teammate Ewa Klobukowska of the pending world record of 11.1, also spearheaded a repeat triumph of the Polish women in the 400-meter relay. The Poles had beaten the U.S. girls in the Tokyo Olympics in world record time.

An upset victory for the Polish men's 400-meter relay quartet over the injury-riddled American sprinters and the breakdown of Ollan Cassell, the top U.S. quarter-miler, in his 400-meter duel with Olympic bronze medalist Andrzej Badenski provided the only other disappointments for the American team that bounded back magnificently from its loss to Russia last week.

A plucky victory for the 19-year-old Gerry Lindgren of Spokane, Wash., in the 5,000 meters and a fine 1,500 meter run by Jim Ryun, 19, of Wichita, Kan., highlighted the Yankees performance in the men's competition.

The U.S. women got strength from unexpected quarters and go into Sunday's final events, trailing their favored Polish rivals by only five points.

Carol Moseke, the University of Nebraska student from Cedar Rapids, placed fourth in the discus.

RaNae Bair, a rangy 21-year-old from San Diego, Calif., heaved the javelin 184-11½ for an American record. Janell Smith, a pretty 18-year-old strinder from Fredonia, Kan., won the 400 meters in 53.7, the fastest ever run by an American girl.

Boosting America's point total in the men's competition were George Anderson of Baton Rouge, La., who won the 100 meters in 10.3; John Pennel of Miami, bounding back in the pole vault with 16-5; Ralph Boston of Nashville, winner of the broad jump at 26-7¾ and Randy Matson of Pampa, Tex., who put the shot a casual 66 feet and ¼ inch in what he called a "bad day."

In addition to Miss Bair and Miss Smith, Eleanor Montgomery of Cleveland won the women's high jump with a leap of 5-7.

The Poles won the discus when Zenon Begier spun the platter 192-11½ with Dave Weill of Walnut Creek, Calif., second at 190-2.

Columbus To Begin Tuesday

Columbus — They are going to have a big parade here today and Monday. It isn't anything organized or won't get a lot of fanfare.

But the operation will bring some 700 thoroughbred horses to town and all the owners, trainers, attendants and officials that go along with them.

It all leads up to the Tuesday opening of the longest race meeting in Columbus history.

Veteran general manager Warren Albert predicts this year's 21-day season will surpass all records in attendance, mutuel handle and class of horseflesh.

"A $173,000 total purse distribution and the four added days above 1964 should put us far in front of all previous years," Albert said.

"Fans will also be greeted by several improvements, including a new paved parking area."

In addition to the 700 horses on the grounds, another 150 head will bed down at Madison and ship to Columbus for their races according to racing secretary Jack Fickler.

Columbus will offer a $900 minimum purse with a feature each day in the $1200 to $1,500 range. There are also two $3,000 races scheduled.

There will be racing Tuesday through Saturday each week with post time 3 p.m. daily and 2 p.m. for the nine-race Saturday cards. The season will close on Labor Day, Sept. 6, with a big card.

The Columbus races are under the direction of the Platte County Agricultural Society.

Boys Enjoy Work, Fun–and Profit–With Sheep

Scribner—The 4-H members belonging to the Lone Star 4-H Club here don't really believe there is any Texas influence behind their club's name.

The club's leader, Don Wagner, says: "I don't know where the members got the idea for the name but it's their club and I let them decide what they wanted to call it."

What Wagner is certain of is that he has some real serious young club members who want to learn the fundamentals of the sheep business.

"The club members are workers, they really want to learn and there isn't any better time for them to develop a knowledge of livestock," says Wagner.

Wagner, a sheep man himself, says he favors sheep for a club project because the investment is not prohibitive, and the animals are small enough that a youngster can handle them without assistance.

Besides, space and facilities can be limited and some of the same practices used on larger animals apply to sheep, he adds.

"From the profit angle sheep have done as well as or better than other livestock and this is something the club member should keep in mind," said Wagner.

Danny Wagner and Robert Dames, two 10-year-old members of the club, are convinced there is little substitute for a lot of work and attention devoted to a project.

"You have to start in early with your lamb, and give it everything you have right up to show day," say the young exhibitors.

They also believe that practice makes perfect, and while they are too young for State Fair competition this year they plan on having a lot of experience behind them during the next couple years before they are ready for statewide competition.

Employment 'Up During Summer'

New York (AP)—This summer appears to be shaping up better economically than expected.

Some economists are raising their sights on business' likely attainments during a period usually considered the doldrums.

President Johnson last week called the economy "good and strong" and expressed the belief that employment will be high throughout the summer.

Total employment reached a record 74.9 million in July and the unemployment rate fell to an eight-year low of 4.5%.

White House Press Secretary Bill Moyers reported:

"The President was particularly pleased by the progress of the economy in the vacation or summer months. That momentum continued during July. The second quarter was another record-breaking quarter and his economic advisers anticipate that the next quarter is going to be good, too."

'It Will Be Up'

Louis T. Harms, Temple University economist, said: "I thought at first the economy would slip down during the second half but now I think it will be up."

Richard Peterson, Bank of America economist, in May raised an earlier estimate of this year's Gross National Product—total of all goods and services—and now says: "I'm inclined to raise it slightly more today."

The escalation of the war in Vietnam is expected to have a bolstering effect on the economy during the second half of this year. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has asked Congress for an additional $1.7 billion now to carry out the war and said he will be back for more in January.

A major factor in keeping the economy rolling at a high level has been the record rate of automobile sales. They have kept on booming despite predictions of a slowdown from the record first quarter rate.

Sales of 710,182 U.S.-made cars in July were a record for the month. The total was up 18% from 603,274 in July 1964.

Industry sales for the first seven months of the year totaled 5,278,361 cars, a gain of 14% over last year's record pace.

105,500 Cars

Production last week slumped to an estimated 105,500 cars—lowest weekly total of the year—as more plants closed for changeover to 1966 models. This compared with 147,230 the previous week and 12,333 a year ago.

However, President Johnson was expected to do everything possible to avert a strike in view of the intensifying Vietnam war.

Higher Shoes

Prices of shoes are expected to go up with introduction of spring lines. It would be the shoe industry's first general price increase in six years.

Stock Prices Going Through 'Consolidation'

New York (UPI)—Stock prices drifted aimlessly in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange last week.

Brokers said the market, after the swift rise of the prior week, was going through a period of consolidation before making a new upswing.

The experts also said the market was testing in upper limits carefully and so far they are pleased with the results.

Profit-taking on last week's advance and in some of the stronger individual issues in the list helped to subdue any bullishness.

Only One Company in Nebraska Has Alcohol Rehabilitation Policy

By BESS JENKINS

Besides bringing 40-year-old Richard Buckley of Omaha another step nearer his master's degree from the University of Nebraska, his thesis has unwittingly resulted in these developments:

Discovery that only one industry throughout Nebraska has a written or formal policy on alcohol rehabilitation for employes.

Led the author permanently from intended personnel work to a post as director of Milwaukee's city-county supported Alcoholism Information and Referral Center.

"I didn't have the slightest intention of such a job when I decided on 'Alcoholism in Industry' as the subject for my thesis," confessed the Omaha married man and father of five.

"It was a staff member in the University placement office interested in my thesis topic who drew my attention to the opening," he explained.

"I thought it over, decided to check it out, had an interview and got the job over a dozen other applicants," is Buckley's explanation.

He reports Aug. 16. The Milwaukee job had been open for a year.

It won't be the best-paying job Buckley has had but it promises "to be the most challenging" in a field that has captured the Nebraskan's imagination.

Buckley left seven years of lucrative insurance experience in Omaha to work on his master's degree in business administration last year. Before that there were seven years as a special investigator in the U.S. Treasury's alcohol tax unit.

With Dr. William Torrence as his faculty advisor, Buckley selected his subject with the intention of making Nebraska industrial experiences in alcoholism programs a major part of the eight-chapter document.

"To my surprise, I found this one large Omaha division of a national industry was the only firm in the state with a written program," he reported.

It had not been effective long enough to provide any substantial data so Buckley turned to national resources.

His purpose, to develop guidelines for company policies and procedures for rehabilitation of alcoholic employes, did not change despite apparent lack of Nebraska concern over this growing problem.

Buckley believes the company with a written policy on alcoholic employe rehabilitation will go further and faster in meeting the problem created by "well in excess of two million industrial workers who are victims today of this disease."

A survey of 500 leading national firms by the Omaha graduate student brought 277 questionnaire replies, showing only 34 have written policies, 129 have unwritten policies, 108 have no policies and seven gave no answer.

More than half with written or unwritten policies "were unable or unwilling to estimate success of their programs."

But 65 companies estimating program success reported good results exceeded 21%—some over 60%.

"Thus, it may be possible for industry to save at least one out of every five alcoholic employes by effective rehabilitation programs," he concludes.

There is no doubt in Buckley's mind that "industry is becoming increasingly aware of the interest it has in a sound alcoholism program. Organized labor and management share this interest to their mutual advantage."

Based on earlier statistics, Buckley estimates that today's absenteeism and related sick time costs nearly $1.1 billion a year, "a loss industry and the nation can ill afford."

Then, he adds, "we have the costs of the 'half-man'." This, he explains, is the person reporting with a hangover and only partially in command of his faculties to work with reduced judgment, impaired skills, lowered output and less efficiency."

Buckley says this "half-man" is generally found among high-status employes such as "executives, attorneys, engineers and physicians."

The thesis also relates the alcoholic employe in terms of costly accidents, labor turnover, waste and inefficiency, poor public relations, and morale effect on fellow workers.

Fruit of Man-Made Labors Provides Harvest of Recreation

By HELEN HAGGIE

Nebraska may not have too many natural lakes, but certainly, the use of man-made lakes is providing a change of pace in summer living. Not only have the large lakes created by conservation programs become recreational spots, but many sandpits have taken on a resort aura.

Such a one is South Bend where many Lincolnites and other eastern Nebraskans have found a haven for water sports enthusiasts. It is as well a spot that offers a retreat from telephones, traffic and the calls of city living.

Week days are relatively quiet at South Bend, with a faithful few taking the 45-minute drive from Lincoln to spend several hours relaxing at the water's edge or improving their water skiing or enjoying the beauties of water in a pontoon boat.

For the Weekend

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stone and their children spend the summer months at their cottage at South Bend. And many other owners of the more than 130 cottages spend a week or two at a time vacationing there. And avid summer South Bend residents usually spend every weekend at the sandpit.

No visitor would realize the large lake as man-made, the product of sand and gravel operations.

For the cottages which have been built around the sandy beach are like resort cottages elsewhere—none exactly alike—all meet the needs and desires of the owners.

Ardent South Benders are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ammon, who have two cottages on the lake. The Ammons do not restrict their South Bend trips to the summer months—they frequently go to the cottage during winter months for ice skating. Fishing is also one of the sports at South Bend which Mr. Ammon thoroughly enjoys.

From the Porch

Weekends bring the whole community alive. Water skiers, pontoon boats and motor boats churn the lake waters to bubbling surf on the beach.

Guests of cottage owners find thrills and excitement as they spin around the lake on water skis or are passengers aboard a boat or as they watch the bustling activity from a cottage porch. Swimmers stay close to dock during weekends to keep clear of the accelerated pace of the boat activities.

South Bend inhabitants are enthusiastic about their retreat close to home, and visitors are envious of the perfect spot to "get away from it all."

'When the Livin' Is Easy' Erases Same Old Routines of Summer Time

By GLENN KREUSCHER

The campsite debate was, "What day of the week is it?"

No one really seemed to care whether it was Thursday or Friday.

A lazy camp fire that earlier produced a baked bass dinner was now at marshmallow roasting stage. The sky was a brilliant display of stars, and just an arm's cast from camp big bass made provoking splashes.

The Bob Gorhams and Glenn Kreuschers were reviewing the pleasant side trips along the 90-mile picturesque shoreline of Lewis and Clark Lake.

There was no hurry to decide the day of the week during the stay at Gavins Point Dam. Two comfortable tent-trailers were home at the Cottonwood Recreation Area where friends had become neighbors for a week at one of the state's favorite rest and play areas.

There was no schedule to meet. The families had forgotten current events. Dads felt like work was a distant echo, easily unheard. The ladies wished it would last forever, not realizing a mother could feel so rested.

Susan and Jim Kreuscher, 9 and 13, and Ricki Gorham, 11, found nature packed with entertainment. They never tired of making trips on an air raft across the quiet tailwaters to inspect a sandbank that had the authenticity of being just like "Mr. Lewis and Mr. Clark found it."

Five designated swimming beaches provided a change of scene for frequent dips in the Mighty Missouri, now tamed by six mainstem dams with many purposes, of which recreation looms most important.

The camping party ate when they were hungry, fished when they felt like it. No wonder everyone had lost track of time.

"You just never realize the beauty of nature until you live outdoors and become a part of the shifting scenes of nature," agreed the campers.

Even though it took a Corps of Engineer employe to provide the answer as to the day of the week, it added up to an unequaled event that comes under the unpretentious description of "camping".

Handbags should be kept close to Milady when in public places, say Lincoln police.

Tightfisted Shoppers Draw Bonus By Keeping to Spend Another Day

By JAN BURNS

Tightfisted women shoppers are an asset to Lincoln police.

Not that the police care how much of her money a woman spends. They're concerned about how much she may lose—unless she keeps a tight grip on her handbag.

"It isn't unusual at all," said Eugene Henninger, captain of detectives, "for women to leave their purses unguarded and lose them to thieves."

Though "not quite" so many men as women lose billfolds, Henninger said, men do share this problem.

He explained that most frequently men's billfolds slip out of pockets when their owners slide into or out of cars or when they are sitting down—in theaters, for instance.

Trouble Coming

But women's purses don't fit in pockets. They're meant to be carried—and when a woman feels she needs both hands for something else, trouble develops.

Women leave their handbags on car tops and fenders. They leave them in rest rooms. They leave them at one end of a store counter while they inspect the merchandise at the other end.

At lunch counters, in shoe stores, in hotel lobbies and depots, women put their purses on the floor or park them some distance away on chairs

LINCOLN DIARY

Sunday: Teen-age musicians Sandy Cornell of Southeast and Nancy Jenkins of University High were literally under fire as they and 108 other young Midwestern Music Campers played the traditional season finale, Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture," on the KU campus at Lawrence.

Tired of faking the cannon volleys in the Russian composition, directors called on nearby Ft. Riley.

The artillery came through with flying colors, sending over four 105 howitzers, a gun squad and the Army band director to cue in the non-musical soldiers.

Boys' Life

Monday: Five-year-old had looked forward to the visit of out-of-town cousins. His special playmate next door was entertaining cousins from out of town, and Five had felt distinctly out of it.

Cousins arrived, a three-year-old going on four, and little sister, two. The two boys immediately were out in the yard playing boy games.

Half an hour later great cries filled the air — cousins had disagreed, and Five's nose was bleeding and Three's ear was very red, obviously bruised by a small hand.

For a few minutes Five thought cousins should be banished from his world.

However, the tale ends happily, for 15 minutes later Five and Three were husking corn for the family dinner.

Likely Institution

Tuesday: A letter from Mrs. Bill Svoboda of Hebron suggests that the college sought by Mrs. Herbert Horgan of of Brookline, Mass., is Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn.

"It has gained quite a reputation recently as an International Student center, since Harry Morgan directs his 'Ambassadors for Friendship' program from it," writes Mrs. Svoboda. "This is purely speculation," she adds.

Mrs. Horgan had asked about an "International College" in this part of the country.

Wednesday: It depended on which thermometer you read at 3:30 p.m. today. The one on the National Bank of Commerce gave the temperature as 91 degrees — and that at the First National as 101 degrees.

Weather bureau reading was 95 degrees!

Point of View

Thursday: Children have wonderful times when visiting grandparents — particularly when grandmothers live in the Sandhills and children are from the city.

Kirk Tische, 8, had a fine time when he was a guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Tische, in Wood Lake. He left her a memento of his visit — one which probably appeals to small boys more than to grandparents.

Kirk found a sand adder and brought it home to her before he returned to Lincoln.

Kirk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tische.

Merfectly Right

Friday: Pizzas were to be the family fare. Just Two was emphatic in her order — "a macaroni pizza."

This took some unraveling by parents and pizza makers, but three-year-old brother came up with the right answer.

"She wants a pepperoni pizza," he explained.

Two nodded happily.

'No Place Like' Best for Starting

New York (UPI)—There's no place like home to start aiding the Keep America Beautiful campaign.

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of the national clean-up unit, said that certain areas of the home are more litter-prone than others. They include the basement playroom, garage, tool shed, and yard.

"If you focus attention on these areas you will quickly educate your family in good anti-litter habits," Seed said. "If they don't litter the yard and playroom, they won't litter the rest of the house—or public places."

A study of litter habits made for one institute confirmed that education is the number one step in an anti-litter campaign.

Seed made these suggestions for an anti-litter campaign at home:

Have a family pow-wow. Announce that you are starting an anti-litter campaign. Point out that littering is a dangerous, costly habit. U.S. taxpayers spend half a billion dollars annually to clean up streets, highways, parks and public places. Litter causes accidents at home. It breeds disease. It leads to 30,000 dwelling fires a year.

Follow up the pow-wow by placing a large covered plastic litter receptacle in the playroom. Put a rust-proof metal litter barrel in the garage. Ask one of the children to police the garage daily, to empty the car ash trays and litterbag. Follow the same program in the tool shed and family hobby areas.

Assign one or more of the children to pick up stray trash in the yard daily. And, insist that the rules be followed

Tape Recorders Give Mother Extra Hands

New York (UPI)—Make way for mother's newst helper—a tape recorder.

Mothers are reporting that recorders are effective household tools, even useful for disciplining children.

One technique, reports one maker of tape recorders, has been tested in the discipline arena and found very helpful.

The technique: tape the sounds of children misbehaving and replaying same at a quiet moment later to show the youngsters how bad they sound when throwing temper tantrums.

The firm also reported that parents who treat themselves to a night out use tape recorders to help the baby sitter keep the children under control. A recorded message with a favorite bedtime story ready by mother can be played by the sitter to quiet youngsters' fears.

And, on occasion, when mom must be out shopping or attending a meeting at the time the children come home from school, the tape recorder again takes over.

Mother leaves a taped message reminding the family of the snacks she has prepared, of homework and housework to be done, of clothes to be changed before going out to play. Electronic nagging, if yo will!

No Scratches

Use wooden spoons when stirring hot foods as you cook. They do not become as hot as metal ones and they never scratch the cooking utensil.

Summer Skin Care

It is easy to have a smooth lovely complexion, despite the skin-coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion from harsh sun rays and will give the skin a cool, milky bloom even on the hottest days. Your druggist can supply you with oil of Olay for your personal needs.

Male Modes: Prepare Each Bird in its Own Sauce

There's a racetrack slogan that goes "Horses for courses." It means literally, that some tracks favor certain horses—and are not so good for others. A similar theory may be applied to fashion. Some styles look great on one class or type of men and much less flattering on another type.

Take an example—even though this one was in the women's field. At a recent fashion show, everyone was impressed with the beauty, and the beautiful legs on one model—who paraded in conventional clothes. Then she came on the runway in one of the "mod" outfits, with skirts fully four inches above the knee.

These costumes looked cute on the teenage models but, on our gal, looked awful—and made her legs look bad.

So remember—pick the things men that flatter YOU not the ones that may look well only on a male model in a magazine ad.

Trends: You think something has hit the peak of popularity—then it goes even bigger! In this case, we're talking about "competition stripes" in almost everything—swim trunks, parkas, T-shirts, sweat shirts, etc.! Madras is so popular with the young men this season in every article of apparel that it even has them buying and wearing Madras hats.

Dress Tips: Garments or shoes using suede leather should be cleaned with a soft sponge. Even "suede brushes" can rub away the nap if used too vigrously.

Put moth repellents as near the top of closets as possible. The vapor descends . . . Do not keep a coat buttoned while it's on a hanger. Allow it to hang loosely and it will revive its shape. On the door hatracks are fine but move the hats around occasionally to keep the wire racks from making a line on the hat or the band.

In the Mail: "How can I keep my shoes from running over and looking old and worn as fast as they do?" This might be caused by one of several faults: You might be wearing the wrong size, or you might be wearing the shoes too steadily, without giving them rest. The regular use of shoe trees might also help.

Care of Clothes: Shoes need more shining in rainy weather, not alone for appearance sake, but because wet-then-dried leather needs the lubrication of polish . . . The mothproofing of a garment will last indefinitely if it is stored properly. If not, then the mothproofing may not be effective for more than a season . . . To get lipstick off shirt collar, rub with a slice of white bread . . . With the lighter-weight shoes now worn in the summer, it's important to use a shoehorn and shoe trees.

ODD ITEMS: Origin—The Tuxedo jacket was born at the club of the same name in Tuxedo, N.Y. The word "tuxedo" is Algonquin Indian for "he has a round foot!"

West Coast Choices—The California Men's Apparel Club gives an annual award to the best dressed man in that area. Recent winners were Jack Benny, Leo Durocher, Robert Wagner, Jerry Lewis, Joey Bishop, David Janssen and Vincent Edwards. A worthy lineup, we'd say. . .

Smart Ensemble—Frank Sinatra, performing at the West Side Tennis Club, wore a handsome tuxedo jacket—completely brocaded, but so subtly that it could only be observed from up close . . . Quote/Unquote: Cartoonist Bill Mauldin, "I don't think anyone is well-dressed who looks like they fussed over themselves." . . .

Nothing New under the sun—The following item ran in a 1925 newspaper: "It is difficult to separate the lads from the lassies this summer. The boys wear their hair longer than the girls, otherwise it would be impossible to separate the sexes!"

Embarrassment May Be Costly

or benches.

Women leave purses in store showrooms when they go into fitting rooms, in fitting rooms when they come out to look in mirrors.

Grocery carts and baby carriages are convenient handbag holders. But it's easy for any shopper to push off with the wrong cart or to lift a purse out of a buggy.

Serious Effect

However the loss occurs, neither a man nor woman is likely to notice it until time to pay for something.

Even then, the loss of purse or billfold and the cash it contained may be only a momentary embarrassment.

More serious—and longer lasting—is the problem of identification, since most persons carry credit cards in purse or wallet.

Loss of these cards can result in an unauthorized person's obtaining merchandise through fraudulent charges.

Observing that many persons carry gasoline credit cards, Henninger recalled an incident in which a trip to Florida and back was financed by the loss of a billfold.

Even in city stores, the detective captain noted, it takes time for credit records to be circulated. By the time all stores have been notified of the loss of a credit card, an unauthorized shopper may have charged quite a bill.

The Lincoln Police Department record is good in these cases, Henninger pointed out, and most of the culprits are caught.

Still, the best idea is for men to carry wallets that fit in front coat pockets and for women to keep handbags in their hands.

Future Lincoln General Hospital chapel sketched . . altar of colored glass tiles set off the small but aesthetic meditation unit.

Rev. Pretty Campaigns for Hospital Chapels, Chaplains

By BESS JENKINS

A hospital or institution without chaplain and chapel today is operating under false economy in the eyes of the Rev. Loren Pretty.

"I know a chapel costs a lot and is not used like an operating room, laboratory or patient areas," admitted the Nebraska Chaplains Assn president and Nebraska Lutheran Social Service executive chaplain

More Than Church

On the basis of total community population, the hospital chapel is used as much if not more than a church," ventures the chaplain supporter.

A hospital or institution chapel, he believes, serves far beyond formalized services and so do clergy who walk the hospital corridors night or day

The chapel's importance to the Rev. Mr. Pretty is its existence "as a quiet place where the patient, the staff, the employe, and families and friends of patients may go at any hour for meditation and spiritual comfort."

The Lincoln pastor is talking about chapels "that are inspiring, restful and a silent witness of faith to all who pass by"

It is, he admits from personal experience, possible but difficult for an individual "to feel the presence of his Maker in an auditorium or gym or recreation room used only hours earlier for far-removed purposes."

The chaplain is well aware the 25 bed or smaller hospital in Nebraska would find this goal more difficult in terms of finances and space

'Quiet Area'

"But each must surely have a room or some small space to set aside as a quiet area conducive to the need that all of us have felt at some time or another in hospitals," he pleaded

The small hospital must, he said, turn to the community for help in providing chaplain services.

"If there must be a choice for bigger hospitals and institutions, though, the chaplain is a first, then the single-purpose chapel," he suggests.

As chairman of a ministerial committee asked by State Director George Morris to set up chaplaincy guidelines for state institutions, the Rev. Mr. Pretty is familiar with that department's problems.

His philosophy has all-out support from Morris, who is held back only by lack of money to build institutional chapels.

"We are conscious of the important role that religion assumes as a therapy to many patients when others fail," said Morris.

"But it seems there are no capital funds left after continuing patient building needs are met"

Hastings Gift

Hastings State Hospital has the only chapel built just for that purpose. Community gifts built it.

Interest in a similar project for Lincoln State Hospital has been expressed but nothing has come of the community proposal to date.

Some institutions have full-time chaplains, others part time or parish clergymen are called on to do the job. Lincoln State is looking for a full time Protestant chaplain

The Rev Mr Pretty is encouraged by the slow but

growing number of full-time chaplains in general hospitals and chapels included in new building plans

Attitude Change

"It shows people are getting away from what was never a logical argument that only denominational hospitals needed chapels and chaplains," he says.

Even the science-minded physician, through the American Medical Assn.'s new medicine-religion department and growing state-local satellites, has acknowledged his profession's need of a clerical shoulder on which to lean in his daily encounters of life and death in the hospital.

Although Catholic hospitals like St. Elizabeth here have traditional denominational chapels, Sister Frances Ann said non-Catholic persons should never be reluctant to use them

"There is no need to even ask this as many often do," said the administrator

The future St. Elizabeth Hospital replacement includes a Catholic Chapel, which "is needed so our Sisters will not have to leave the grounds for daily masses and meditations."

25% Figure

Its contemplated size, seating 100 or more, will please the Rev Pretty, who says ideally a chapel should be large enough to accommodate 25% of the patient capacity

Lincoln General, a non-denominational hospital, will have its first chapel in the new structure now under construction.

A small but aesthetic meditation unit, it will be in the heart of the future complex of medical buildings there—the new hospital, the existing hospital to become a long term care unit and the county convalescent hospital.

Bryan Memorial already has both chapel and chaplain The former dates from the hospital's recent up-dating; the chaplain came much earlier in the Methodist-affiliated hospital

Practicing what he preaches, the Rev. Mr. Pretty wearing a third hat as Lincoln Veterans Hospital's Protestant chaplain will campaign for a chapel there this week when a VA team from Washington, D C. looks over the facility for modernization needs

He and others vividly recall a chapel was included in the modernization-expansion plans abandoned suddenly several years ago by Washington.

Alumnus of NWU Named to Lead Chaplain Service

A Nebraska Wesleyan University alumnus, retired Navy Capt Richard W Ricker, has been appointed director of chaplain's service for The Upper Room magazine

Ricker

Dr Ricker will coordinate distribution of the daily devotional magazine to armed forces chaplains.

Dr. Ricker formerly directed religious programs conducted by 12 chaplains at five bases for more than 10,000 military personnel and their dependents

He also administered training programs for 200 reserve chaplains and screened applicants for commissions

He received his bachelor of arts and was awarded the honorary doctor of divinity degrees from NWU and he received a bachelor of divinity from Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill.

Builders Club Donates $27,000

House of The Week Space Needs Met

By Associated Press

Each year, architects and builders are faced with a mounting demand for more bedrooms more bathrooms, additional storage space and such things as family rooms and laundry areas

Meeting this demand poses continuous problems, because incorporating them into house designs means an increase in the cost of labor and materials

The problems are especially difficult when those looking for additional living space are insistent that all the rooms be on a single floor

There is no easy solution perhaps no solution at all since it is basic that a larger home with extra features, will cost more money

However architect Herman H York has come up with a one story house which satisfies many such demands yet is within the economic framework of the average middle income family

It calls for a fair-sized lot, with over-all dimensions of 70 feet 4 inches by 33 feet 2 inches, including a one-car garage—but the living area has been held to 1700 square feet

By minimizing the number of breaks in roof intersections using simple construction details and locating bathrooms next to each other architect York has been able to reduce costs. This has been done with no sacrifice in the practicality of the floor plan

The living room, dining room, family room, kitchen and laundry are all on the right side of the house, the four bedrooms on the left Note the flexibility of the plan

The fourth bedroom can be used as a nursery, with a location for a connecting door from the owners' bedroom Such a door can serve to make a two-bedroom suite of the rear area or a library or lounging room of the extra bedroom

Another alternate to the plan is the elimination of the basement The stairway in the corner of the family room is omitted a small change is made in the adjacent bedroom and a space is assigned to the furnace at first-floor level.

Further examination of Design H-95 reveals many other features among them a covered front entrance, a twin lavatory in the hall bath, a dressing area and walk-in closet for the owner, a corner fireplace in the family room, an outdoor barbecue with a flue in the main chimney nine feet of sliding glass doors in the family room, a pantry mud closet and broom closet in the laundry area; and direct access from the garage to the service area of the house

There are many parts of the country where home owners demand exterior walls of brick or stone This house is shown in brick, but would not be less attractive if stone were used

If a combination is wanted, the architect suggests that the stone be limited to the center section, the wall of the living room and dining room.

The reason is somewhat technical but designers have discovered that it usually is better to change a wall material on an inside rather than an outside corner.

Garden Gossip

Full Count of Insects Still Present in Lawn

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

It is surprising the various kinds of insects that can be found in the lawn at this time of year The adult millers of the cutworms armyworms, and sod-webworms are seen while mowing the lawn Under the soil white grub and larva of the cutworms and sod-webworms are present Another lawn insect is the chigger which isn't seen but often felt

All of these insects plus the ants, crickets, and ticks can be controlled with one application of insecticide. Numerous insecticides will do a good job, but sevin, diazinon, aldrin, and dieldrin are the ones most commonly used and available.

The insects that feed and live near the surface of the soil are controlled with less insecticide than those living below the soil Ants crickets ticks chiggers and webworms are controlled by using the following amounts of insecticides

Material	Amount per 1,000 Square Feet
Sevin (50% Powder)	2 cups in 15 gallon water
Diazinon (25%)	½ pint in 5 gallon water
Dieldrin (5% Granular)	2 pounds

Mow the lawn, then water well before making the insecticide application After the insecticides are applied, keep the children and pets off the grass until the chemicals have been washed off the grass and the grass is completely dry

White grubs can easily be observed under the soil if they are present in the lawn When these worms are found in large numbers the lawn is treated with aldrin or dieldrin The following chart shows the amount to use Immediately after the granules are applied, water the lawn thoroughly to place the chemical where the worms are located

Material	Amount per 1,000 sq. ft.
Aldrin (20% Granular)	1 to 2 lbs.
Dieldrin (5% Granular)	2 lbs.

Fertilizer Will Aid Compost

A small amount of commercial fertilizer can be a real help for breaking down organic matter in the garden compost heap

A garden compost pile is a practical place to put garden refuse. Wayne Whitney, University of Nebraska Extension horticulturist, recommends a compost pit about four feet square and a foot deep.

Cover the first layer of organic matter with a one-inch layer of soil. The micro-organisms need a source of nitrogen during the decomposition process. Sprinkle about a cupful of 30-0 over each layer of soil as the compost is filled.

Wet each layer down with three to five gallons of water and repeat the layering until all available organic material has been used or the preferred compost height has been reached

Include in the compost grass clippings, disease and weed-free garden refuse, tree leaves and immature weeds. Next spring you will have an excellent supply of garden humus or soil conditions, Whitney says.

Ginkgo leaf is like duck's foot.

Your Nurseryman Speaks

Ginkgo: 'Monster'

Millions of years before man arrived on earth, one gigantic cloud covered the entire world. Because of the steamy, humid atmosphere, plants grew extremely large.

Ferns similar to those that now grow two feet high climbed over one hundred feet into the air. These were truly the dinosaurs of the plant kingdom.

Then the ice age came and these dinosaur plants died. Today the only proof that they ever lived is to be found in the imprints which their leaves and trunks made deep in the ground. They are all extinct—with one exception.

This is the "tree with the leaf like a duck's foot." It is the ginkgo or maidenhair tree.

The ginkgo is like no other tree on the face of the earth. Although it looks like a shade tree and drops its leaves in winter, it actually belongs to the great family of conifers.

It looks like a pin oak, but it is really first cousin to a blue spruce.

Although it survived thousands of years of ice, it now grows wild nowhere on earth. In fact, these trees would not be growing in Lincoln, Nebr. today were it not for the Buddhist monks of China.

These quiet men loved this strange living fossil and carefully nurtured it inside the monastery walls. When China was invaded by the Japanese hundreds of years ago, one of the spoils of war was the ginkgo tree.

The victorious Japanese took the ginkgo home and planted it in their gardens.

The first Englishmen to visit Japan bought some of these trees and carried them home.

Ginkgos have sex. Every one is either male or female. The female produces a seed that resembles a large yellow cherry. The Chinese roast these seeds and eat them. They think that ginkgo fruit makes them strong.

However, this seed tastes something like limburger cheese garnished with stink weed.

Hunting Was Good in Pleasant Hill

Search Pays Off For Photographer

The photo "Country Music" which Fraas submitted was judged best in the people and activities category of the color division. Fraas wins a $35 prize for the photo.

Fraas

Armed with his Minolta SR-7 35-millimeter camera, Fraas drove around the countryside searching for pictures to take so he could enter the contest.

In a country tavern at a place called Pleasant Hill in Saline County, Fraas found his subject: Frank (Squeak) Slapnicka of Wilber playing the accordion.

Fraas used Ektachrome X color film and an electronic flash to take the picture, with a 135-millimeter lens.

Fraas, a welder by trade, has been taking pictures "as long as I can remember" but has been using 35 millimeter only a year and a half. He is a member of the Lincoln Camera Club.

Other top entries in the people and activities category of the color division were submitted by:

Robert Pickel, 3311 Prescott; Michael Hayman, 7921 Sycamore; Mrs. Ted Tebo, Route No. 1, Roca; Mrs. F. A. Haskins, 820 Robert Road; Gwendoline E. Birkey, 2503 No. 48th; Mrs. Pat Mulligan, 6100 Meadowbrook Lane; J. E. Hauge, Meadow Grove; and Christy Sexton, 4424 Touzalin.

'Ben Casey' Figured It Was Time to Give Marriage a Try

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood (AP) — "Every man has to face the experience sometime. I'm 35, so I figured it was time for me."

This was Vincent Edwards' explanation of his sudden, secret marriage to actress Kathy Kersh. The wedding, disclosed six weeks after it happened, came as a surprise to friends of the "Ben Casey" star — and maybe to him as well.

The scowly television surgeon long was one of Hollywood's most devout bachelors. A year ago I offered to bet him he would marry in 1964. Edwards accepted readily and even volunteered 10-1 odds. I lost, and unfortunately declined to renew the bet for 1965.

Edwards, who plays the odds on horses and show business with equal enthusiasm, takes a like attitude toward his marriage.

"Kathy's a great girl — talented, too," he remarked. "I hope everything works out all right."

He can thank actor George Hamilton for introducing him to the young actress. The pair met at a small party at Hamilton's Beverly Hills mansion eight months ago. They started dating immediately, and Edwards directed her in one of the "Ben Casey" shows.

The reason for the secrecy of the wedding?

"I had some relatives and friends in the east who wouldn't be able to attend, and I didn't want to offend them," Edwards explained. "Besides, I didn't want the wedding to become a b/g production, as it would in this town. I wanted to see if I could get away with doing it my way."

He accomplished it with astonishing ease. He and Kathy picked up the license in downtown Los Angeles without detection. Edwards said he merely donned eye glasses, a hat and a prop mustache and beard, then used his real name, Vincent Zoino. The wedding took place in a Beverly Hills home before 20 guests. None squealed.

But rumors began to crop up. Edwards evaded them until someone tracked down the marriage license. Then the news was released.

Iowa Playground Offers Fun for Entire Family

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gingrich of Lincoln enjoy quiet stroll along beach at Lake Okoboji.

All who have ever traveled with children can fully appreciate the vacation spot within a few hours of home If that spot offers such additional delights as a blue water lake of considerable size, modern accommodations and a plentitude of things to do, it can be classed as out of this everyday world for family fun

Such a place is Lake Okoboji in the Great Lakes region of northwestern Iowa.

Particularly at the lakefront New Inn, built several years ago after fire razed its landmark predecessor, one can find activities for all ages. As a starter, there is swimming in a spacious pool or in the lake itself.

Golf, Riding, Skiing

Boating, water skiing, skin-diving, fishing or just plain wading can be enjoyed in Okoboji's clear waters.

There are fine golf courses, one of championship caliber; western riding at a ranch not far distant; the Stephens College summer theater; ferry boat trips on the venerable Queen, and the magic amusement-park world of Arnold's Park.

And then there's eating: Meals can be enjoyed home-style from the trim kitchen in one's own cabin or 100% vacation-style in the poolside coffee shop or luxurious dining room of the main building. Choice food, excellent service and dancing to a combo make "dining Inn" far more memorable than just "dining in."

But there's more. Providing pleasant hours for tots and carefree ones for their parents is a shady, fenced, supervised playground overlooking the lake. A recreation director schedules daily events for both children and adults.

And Sitters, Too

Add to this the availability of baby-sitters, hairdressers, churches and an airstrip with tie-down facilities for 30 light planes and one begins to get the full picture of what this recreation center has to offer.

Sights to see include the Gardner log cabin, scene of the horrendous Indian massacre which prompted the best-selling book "Spirit Lake" by MacKinlay Kantor, three state parks, the state fish hatchery and Spirit Lake.

This resort area of great natural beauty is a vacation bargain for the family wanting to spend a minimum of time to reach a truly rewarding destination.

Smile When You Say 'Senior Citizen,' Pard

By Gertrude Skinner

Ruskin

At what age is it correct to call someone a senior citizen?

Certainly not at 90, almost 91, as is my father Call him a senior citizen and you had better be ready to duck

Imply that any of his capabilities are lessening due to age and he'll dress you down in language too purple to print Plunging the sharp dagger of condecension into his sensitivities is really asking for it.

To be a character and to have character takes a bit of doing Dad is a classic example of both. He's always met life head on. For him there are always battles to be fought and he isn't about to surrender the battle of age

For him a man no longer counts when his voice is no longer heard for or against the things which concern him and his fellow man.

Why should he retreat? The happiest old people I know are those who have fought back like demons, refusing surrender to the encroachment of years.

The most miserable and wretched ones are those who have meekly surrendered, loved to death by everyone (smothered to death, might be a better choice of words.).

Many elderly people do nothing but look out windows. Frustrated, they have nothing today, no challenge for tomorrow.

In contrast, Dad storms the ramparts each day, flings his challenge to tomorrow. No face against the window for him. There'll be no truce and no surrender so long as he can kick. I love a fighter!

Children look in wonderment at 'oldest' house.

Restoration of 'Oldest' House In Lincoln Is Bogged Down

Work on the restoration of the Thomas Jefferson Hudson log cabin, believed to be the oldest house in Lincoln, is "bogged down" according to Mrs. Dean Petersen.

The Hudson home, located at 2236 So. 9th, was purchased in June of 1964 by Mayor Dean Petersen who turned the problem of restoration over to his wife.

The Petersens' plans are to restore the house either at its present location or in one of the city's parks, then turn the cabin over to the city as a historical site.

Mrs. Petersen said both the Nebraska Historical Society and the Smithsonian Institution have offered assistance in the cabin's restoration

"I am personally for moving the house to one of the city parks, for instance near the zoo," the mayor's wife said, "but others have said it would lose some of its authenticity if moved

"My major complaints to leaving it on So. 9th are the difficult access to it with one-way streets on each side and also the fact that there is no place to park when you get there."

The cabin is of great interest to Lincolnites which was shown last summer when several open house periods were held. Over 1,000 persons attended each open house.

The Petersens purchased the cabin from the G. G. Gulland family who had planned to use it as a rental unit Mrs. Gulland had formerly lived in the cabin as a very young child.

While remodeling the Hudson home in March of 1964, Gulland discovered that the home was really a very old cabin which had experienced many modifications.

Since selling the house to the Petersens, the former owner has made a study into the history of the home including talks with authorities at the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

The Hudson home has a long history being built before Oct. 19, 1863. On that date Hudson filed a "homestead entry" at the land office in Nebraska City.

Hudson later gave away about half of his land in 1880 to the Capitol Commission for the then proposed state capitol.

The Petersens are waiting for an estimate of the cost of restoration both at the present site and at a new site.

The estimate "should be made shortly by a representative of the National Park and Museum Service, "according to Mrs. Petersen.

Mrs Petersen indicated that wherever the cabin is restored, "24-hour supervision will have to be maintained since already souvenir seekers have stripped the back of the house of its shingles"

"John," Ursula Andress tells John Richardson, "you are the reincarnation of the lover I killed in a fit of jealousy nearly 2,000 years ago."

May sound kooky but it's spectacular as classically featured Ursula plays the title role of the immortal queen of a lost continent and John tries hard to be a hero.

Adventure, fantasy and romance are main ingredients of this filmization of H Rider Haggard's famed novel about a white empress of an African kingdom who finds in a contemporary Englishman her long-dead, killed-in-Egypt boyfriend.

Princess' Choice

London (AP)—Princess Margaret's favorite stage show of the season is 'Son of Oblomov,' a farce by and starring Spike Milligan.

Have They Forgotten?

Hollywood (AP) — Director Henry King, a veteran of silent movies, says that pantomime has become a lost art.

"It seems that young players have forgotten that such a mode of expression exists," says King.

"Why does Chaplin remain an international star though he has not made a movie in years?"

King made the remarks in explaining why he chose Cantinflas to play the role of the simple Mexican peasant in "The Story of Guadalupe."

"The story is so international, so basic that it can be understood by anyone. Words would only ruin some of the scenes. But Cantinflas with his gift of pantomime can portray the awe-struck peon who sees the Virgin."

After Six

Hollywood (UPI) — Richard Widmark and William Holden, who hasn't made a picture in Hollywood for a half-dozen years, will co-star in "Alvarez Kelly" at Columbia.

It's said their eyes smoked and their fingers itched—and they came out of the four winds. It may be!

They are played by old and tough John Wayne, with an empty soul; by card shark Dean Martin, who could use a gun if he had to; by quiet Earl Holliman (no one ever called him yellow twice) and by young Michael Anderson Jr.

And this woman, Martha Hyer, tried to tame them all while they fought against evil in the Texas of the 1890's.

Travel, Adventure Series Set

Over a period of years one could screen-visit just about all the world by attending the travel and adventure film series presented each fall by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

This season you can go:

"From Athens to Cairo," not to mention Istanbul, Beirut, Alexandria and other scintillating cities of the "ancient world." The interest is unusual, the narrator Gene Wiancko. On Sept. 28.

To "Indonesia — Bali, Java and Sumatra." Phil Walker will present the horned house of the Bataks; palaces, mosques, volcanoes; floating islands and a fabulous trance dance. Beautiful lands and exotic people. Oct. 12.

Visit "Rainbow Lands of Central America," known intimately by Thayer Soule for 25 years. There's Panama, the world's crossroad; Costa Rica, democratic stronghold; El Salvador and Guatemala, all excitingly colorful. Nov. 9.

Look at everything "From Senoritas to Sourdoughs," by Don Cooper. This newcomer to the lecture field, son of the late Montana Sen. G. R. Cooper, was born and reared in logging camps and knows Alaska well. It's "spell of the Yukon" for the moviegoer. Nov. 23.

Climb, visually, the "Grand Tetons." Action, humor, horseback riding, trout reeling, Snake River boating, with a hi-fi background. Your announcer will be Julian Gromer. Dec. 7.

All performances will be at the Lincoln High School Auditorium, 22nd and J at 7:30 p.m.

Grave Role

Hollywood (UPI) — Charles Bickford will play "the richest undertaker in Texas" in "A Big Hand for the Little Lady."

Acting Bug Bites Tony Bennett

Hollywood (AP) — Tony Bennett, the man who lost his heart in San Francisco, is trying his luck in Los Angeles — as a movie actor.

He is at Paramount these days for his first screen role in "The Oscar." He plays a benevolent press agent.

"I'm all through the story and I even narrate it," Bennett said in the Paramount commissary. "No, I don't sing a note in the picture. I might record a song from it later, but I wouldn't sing it over the titles. That would be stepping off the curb."

He means, I suppose, that he wants to make strides as an actor and not borrow on his singing fame.

"Well, I studied acting for three years at the American Theater Wing," he said. "And I've done some summer stock in shows like 'Guys and Dolls' and 'Silk Stockings.'

"But more than that, I figure I'm acting every night I step out on a stage."

There are many to attest to that, notably the chief Bennett booster, Frank Sinatra. "For my money, Tony Bennett is the best singer in the business, the best exponent of a song," Sinatra has said. "He's the singer who gets across what the composer has in mind, and probably a little more."

In truth, the ability to sell a song has proven the stepping stone to many a movie career; not only Sinatra's, but those of Bing Crosby, Doris Day, Betty Grable, Dean Martin, Dick Powell, and others.

One of the highest paid performers in the music field, Bennett admitted he took a loss to remain here for "The Oscar." But it is a new facet of his career that he wants to pursue.

Criticizing Experts Needs Consideration

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

How critical should we be of bridge big-leaguers? Even though it's a fair proposition that World Championship aspirants should be judged by the most exacting standards, you might be disinclined to fault West for the way he handled this deal. But first take his cards and see if you can do better.

You don't get rich by keeping quiet on a hand like West's — especially when striving for a berth on a World Championship team — so most experts would endorse the gambling double. They would also approve West's choice of opening lead—the trump ten—since a lead of the wrong ace might present declarer with an easy ride.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	4♡	Dbl.	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart ten

But when, after the trump lead, declarer rattled off three more rounds of trumps and shifted to a small diamond, West was faced with a tough problem to which he failed to find an answer. How about you?

West elected to play low to the diamond lead, whereupon South won with dummy's queen and led the spade king from the table, pitching his diamond king. Later declarer had no trouble taking the winning position in clubs, and the club king was a precious entry to the two high spades. Declarer thus added four tricks in the plain suits to his seven trump tricks, and he wrapped up a doubled overtrick.

Had West gone in with the diamond ace, he could have removed the vital dummy entry by shifting to clubs; eventually the defenders take a total of three club tricks as well as the diamond ace. But though this deal came up in an international trial, not everyone thought West was at fault for missing the winning defense.

Some kibitzers called the play of the diamond ace "impossible," since it establishes the entire diamond suit if South holds K-x-x. Others, less charitably inclined, pointed out that if declarer held K-x-x, there would be no way to beat the hand.

Martian Scorns Mariner 4

Hollywood (AP)—Uncle Martin O'Hara, who has been trying to get back home to Mars for the past two merry CBS seasons now, sat in front of his earthly television set listening and watching as scientists made their reports on the Mariner 4 pictures. At frequent intervals his antennae compulsively appeared and disappeared and his lips curled in scorn.

"Air!" exclaimed everybody's favorite Martian. "Who needs it? Anybody who can live in Los Angeles' smog or New York's pollution would find Mars' thin air refreshing and invigorating."

He smiled cynically as Dr. Robert Leighton revealed the unexpected existence of craters on the planet.

"Craters, my foot," he confided. "Actually, they are unreplaced divots. Golf, the scientists will find out some time, is very big on Mars.

"And as far as that lack of 'free water' is concerned, did you ever see a Southern California water bill? And the way things are now, East Coast people would feel right at home there."

Uncle Martin, nee Ray Walston, leaned back comfortably, chuckling.

"The poor astronomers and their talk about forbidding appearances, and dark auras. That's just our clever Martian camouflage—to keep the Earth tourists away. I sure hope it works."

He carefully retracted his antennae, checked his makeup and, whistling a weird Martian tune, returned to the earthbound studio set.

NBC Is Planning Series Of 'Test Yourself' Specials

By GINNY FISHER

Television is a great imitator.

TV series have copied popular radio shows, have been based on top movies and have used characters created in books and comic strips. But, most of all, the TV networks zealously imitate each other

When one network broadcasts a very popular new show, the other networks, immediately if not sooner, produce nearly identical "twin sister" shows

Imitation, when it comes in the form of flattery, can be a welcome addition. However, it can also be a sneaky way of cashing in on some profits. NBC does both in several upcoming fall specials.

NBC, with a special "exploring the world of the teen-ager," is cashing in on the monetary fad of teenervision, which is more and more in demand by profit-conscious sponsors. Additional programs and specials which emphasize teens have multiplied so rapidly since last fall, they surely must have befuddled and bewildered the rabbits and guinea-pigs.

NBC is also planning a series of five specials,which fall into the "imitation is flattery" category. These specials have been on the "thinking boards" since last spring when over-whelming support and acceptance were noted for the CBS special which allowed viewers to test their driving habits at home.

NBC's projected five will allow the public to self-test themselves on various aptitudes, political views, prejudice, observation and reading ability. Plus a sixth special will document the different kinds of testing being conducted throughout the U.S.

In a take-off that's been long awaited, CBS will star the "Peanuts" comic strip characters in "Charlie Brown's Christmas." The animated color special will air on Dec. 9 at 6 30 p m Even the time is ideal.

Local stations offer several specials this week

In an on-the-move documentary KETV presents "Nightwatch" at 9:30 p m. Wednesday. Lee Terry narrates as the news camera rides with Omaha Police on night patrol, catches their rare moments of boredom and eavesdrops on the policemen's "gripe" sessions

A four-week series "Previews of College English," which explains the content of college-level English courses, premieres Monday at 5 p m on KUON KETV, which started the series earlier, begins the third week at 7 30 p.m Monday

Marni Nixon, a singer who is more often heard than seen, will both appear and perform on "Creative Person" over KUON at 8 p m Wednesday

Miss Nixon, often called "The ghostess with the mostest," has dubbed the singing for Audrey Hepburn in "My Fair Lady," for Natalie Wood in "West Side Story" and for Deborah Kerr in "The King and I."

A few network notes. CBS evidentally thinks highly of the forthcoming Carol Channing special as they plan to pre-empt the top rated "Gomer Pyle" for her.

ABC's Jimmy Dean is becoming quite versatile He'll make his dramatic debut in an early episode of the new ABC series "Shenandoah Man," starring Robert Horton. Then on his variety show, Dean will spotlight the Japanese version of "Grand Ole Opry." Ah, so!

Lucy Delivers Ditty Riding Pachyderm

New York (UPI) — "Get me some cottage cheese and pineapple," said Lucille Ball. "I look too awful to go downstairs"

She was wearing black ballet tights and her red-blonde hair was swept up under a circlet of leaves She didn't look awful at all Only tired.

For a lady of a certain age Miss Ball has a great deal going for her besides a hit television show and a profitable career as president of Desilu Studios.

She has for example, a notable pair of legs and an engagingly humorous slant on her own activities.

"Tonight," she said, "I am dressing up in a top hat, white tie and tails and I am going to climb on the back of an elephant in Shubert Alley and sing 'Hey Look Me Over'. Don't ask me why," she said, the famous smile crinkling the corners of her mouth. "I wish I knew."

The idea that Miss Ball would be more effective delivering a ditty from the podium of a ponderous pachyderm came from George Schatter, producer of the new Steve Lawrence show who seems to feel the time has come for more television showmanship. Another of his guests this season, Liberace, will ride a motor scooter up the main stem—without piano however.

Miss Ball agreed to be the first of Steve's guest stars on CBS-TV, Sept 13

Johnny Carson Gets Lift From Las Vegas

By JOHNNY CARSON

Las Vegas, Nev. (UPI) — Last summer I tried an experiment, and it worked, and I'm back right now redoing it I have a commitment to repeat the procedure in the summer of 1966.

This is by way of saying that on July 1, 1964, I took off a month from the nightly chores of NBC-TV's "Tonight" show and appeared for the first time as a supper-club entertainer.

The site of my debut was the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas, where twice nightly, seven days a week for a month, I was out in front of all kinds of people, representing, as I found out later, more than 30 states.

After 56 individual shows, I realized I had had a wonderful time. As a matter of fact, it was invigorating. It's funny to say that you can recharge yourself doing two shows nightly and being a captive of air-conditioning in the daytime, but it's true.

I tried swimming a few times, but it's not easy to stay in an outdoor pool very long when your face and shoulders are getting the direct rays of a burning sun that is part of a temperature reading of 112 degrees.

I tried golf in the hot, dry air. But by the time you've walked to the fifth hole, club swinging isn't easy. Especialy when you look at the caddy who seems ready to succumb to the heat. Why go on to the sixth hole, if you may have to assist your club-carrier to a shady nook? So much for golf.

So, there isn't very much outdoor activity during July and August in Las Vegas. But of all places in the United States to do an in-person show before a guaranteed appreciative audience, this is it.

After working a season for untold millions in living rooms and for a few hundred members of the studio audience each night, it becomes a happy change for an entertainer to put together a monologue, fashion a musical spot or two, work up some audience participation and go out and perform in what may be considered the 1960's version of the 1920's two-a-day vaudeville Take it from this purebred product of radio and television, there is really no substitute for live laughter, smiling faces and applause out front

I was told that some people drove 600 miles to spend an evening watching one of my shows, and next morning returned to their homes in the midwest to become television viewers again. This is very gratifying for any performer, and that's why, basically, I wanted to come back again this summer.

Carson . . . wonderful time

The Sahara people told me, and I'm trying to reflect this modestly, that I did extremely well last year, well enough to be considered an attendance record-holder.

Gomer Pyle At Iowa Rodeo

Sidney, Ia — Jim Nabors, star of TV's 'Gomer Pyle—USMC" show, will be the star of the 1965 championship rodeo here, Aug 17-22

Nabors

He will appear at all 10 performances of the forty-second annual rodeo.

Before starring in his own series as a private in the Marine Corps. Jim Nabors played the role of Gomer Pyle — a naive, easy going service station attendant — on 'The Andy Griffith Show." His popularity grew to the point that Nabors appeared on network specials, combining his hillbilly monologues with operatic arias.

Hoover Stamp Is Ready

By Associated Press

The five-cent U.S. stamp commemorating former President Herbert Hoover will be issued Tuesday at West Branch, Iowa, where he was born in 1874.

It is postal tradition to issue commemorative stamps on the death of a former President. The design of the stamp is based on a photograph that was the official portrait for the 1932 presidential campaign.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the Postmaster, West Branch, Iowa 52358.

The envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Herbert Hoover Stamp." Requests must be postmarked not later than Tuesday.

Twenty years ago Germany was partitioned and the problem has troubled the world ever since. To commemorate the anniversary of the split and the expatriation of Germans from their homeland in the eastern part, the Federal Republic in West Germany has issued a new 20 Pfennig stamp, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The design shows two refugee families — a young couple with a child and an elderly man and wife travelling against a high wind.

When East Germany was occupied by the Russians in 1945, the section of Poland bordering on Germany was also incorporated. Poland was compensated by being allowed to take over Germany's eastern border.

Many German citizens affected by the transition fled or were expelled by the Polish government. The immigrants, like the ones depicted on this stamp, sought settlement in West Germany.

Most Valuable

The most valuable stamp in the world appeared recently at the Stanley Gibbons Catalog Centenary Exhibition in London.

The stamp is the 1 cent British Guiana Black on Magenta valued at $75,000. It was issued in 1856 and is the only known copy in existence.

Since 1940 the stamp has been shown only three times.

Scouting Stamp

Paraguay has issued a new set of stamps honoring the Ninth Encampment of the International Boy Scouts. There are five regular postage stamps and three airmails.

Three designs feature a Scout in uniform plus the emblem of the Scouts, Lord Baden-Powell and emblem, and the third with just the emblem.

Sandy Dennis: She's No Stock Hollywood Blonde

Hollywood (UPI) — Her name is Sandy Dennis. She's blonde, exciting and different. And you will be hearing from her.

Sandy, a native of Lincoln, Nebr., gained a modicum of fame on Broadway in "Any Wednesday" in which she captivated audiences for a full year.

But now she's graduating to the big-time. She will co-star with Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

It's a tremendous opportunity, a show case, for the radiant youngster. If she does well, Sandy won't be afraid of Virginia Woolf, or anyone else. And chances are she will co-star with Frank Sinatra in the screen version of "Any Wednesday."

Not Stock Blonde

Sandy, as needs be, has something special going for her. She's not the stock Hollywood blonde. Once you see her you'll remember her.

She wears little or no makeup, driving the photographers at Warner Bros. crazy. She also refuses to wear restricting undergarments.

Sandy stormed Hollywood a couple of years ago without success. She appeared for a screen test and the wardrobe lady insisted she wear a torso torturing all-in-one foundation garment.

Sandy took one look at the iron maiden and quit cold.

'No One Else'

"I refused to get all trussed up with falsies and those whalebone corsets," Sandy explained. "If I can't be myself, I won't be anyone else.

"The first time I tried the movies I couldn't get tested, but it's different this time. I came out here to test for a specific part. Everyone has been gracious and helpful.

"I wanted to play this role very much and I'm happy the test was successful.

"I'd like to stay out here and work in other pictures, but there's another play for me in New York—'Dauphine in Cottage D.'

"It will have to be delayed if the picture deal for 'Any Wednesday' works out. If not, I'll be back in New York by October."

Brainy Beauty Lauds 'Best Summer Job in the World'

Las Vegas (UPI) — A University of Texas honor student who gets "A"s in trigonometry and sings in her church choir is one of Las Vegas' newest chorus girls.

"I've got the best summer job in the whole world," declared the beautiful and brainy coed, 21-year-old Betty Jo Machann of Pasadena, Tex.

Betty Jo is one of nine Texas beauties who form the nucleus of the "Rangerettes," the new chorus line at the Riviera Hotel. The girls, who are predominantly college students with no previous professional show business experience, were selected from dozens of eager applicants in Texas by Riviera executive Tony Zoppi and choreographer Jo Ann Dale.

The "Rangerettes" are guaranteed eight weeks work at the hotel and appear with such stars as Nancy Wilson, Johnny Rivers, Abbe Lane and Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong.

For Betty Jo, a tall, fine-boned blonde with big blue eyes and a peaches and cream complexion, the chance to work with these performers "is so exciting that I still can't believe I'm really here."

If it hadn't been for her mother, Betty Jo wouldn't be a "Rangerette." "My dear, wonderful mother read about the Rangerette contest in the newspaper," explained "B.J.," as her friends call her. "She sent in my picture and a letter telling about me and all the singing and dancing lessons I've taken since I was a little girl.

Betty Jo is enrolled in the honors program at the University of Texas and has a high scholastic average. When her Las Vegas summer is over, she definitely plans to go back to school.

Pub Singers Still Lift Irish Rafters

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

Dublin (AP) — Those who feared that Ireland's singing pubs might disappear with the advent of Irish television need bother their heads no longer. Ballad singing is bigger than ever in the Ould Sod.

Where five years ago only the Clancy Brothers were known outside of Ireland, there are now dozens of folk singing groups in demand on the continent; making reputations as far away as Australia and New Zealand through their recordings.

In the north of Ireland, pubs close at 10:30 p.m. In the Free State, the traditional "Time, Gentlemen" is proclaimed an hour later. But the Irish learned long ago to cope with such oppressive laws by the simple expedient of starting earlier, which means that the singing in most of Ireland's singing pubs often gets underway as early as 7:30 p.m., or as soon as the lads have had time to dampen a tonsil with a jar or two.

Nasal Accent

For those who have never been to a singing pub, where the entertainment is always spontaneous, often hilarious and usually anti-British in innuendo, an album called "The Dubliners in Concert" (Transatlantic Records) might serve as a good introduction.

At the moment, the Dubliners are Ireland's most popular folk singing group. Led by guitarist Ronnie Crew and featuring banjo wizard Barney McKenna, they sing the most uproarious Irish folk songs, like "Mrs. McGrath," "Finnegan's Wake" and Domenic Behan's moving but cynical "The Patriot Game," in a harshly nasal Dublin accent that is sometimes a bit difficult to understand but always worth the effort.

The Dubliners hit big in the British market and became the rage of London with their exhuberant rendering of "The Wild Rover," a roguish South African drinking song about a fellow who promises "nay, no, never" to spend all his money again on whiskey and beer.

When they're not making recordings or ducking over to Liverpool to beat the Beatles in their own lair, the Dubliners can be heard and seen most any night at Donahue's Pub, one of Dublin's more famous singing bars.

And just a few blocks from them, at Parnell House near Nelson's Pillar, "The Moonshiners" regale packed houses with a rowdy selection of Irish revolutionary songs. How the impressionable Irish have refrained all these years from blowing the British Lord Nelson off his high pedestal overlooking O'Connell Street is no fault of the Moonshiners, who have been urging insurrection in delightful song and ditty nightly for the past several years.

U.S. Visits

But the feeling against the British has so died down that occasionally the buckos even dare to sing "Me Old Orange Flute," a hilarious ballad from Protestant Ulster about an Orangeman who married "a Papist named Brigid O'Flynn" and met with a rash of trouble when he went to play his Protestant flute in a Catholic choirloft.

The Moonshiners, who work for Irish Airlines by day and sing to cure a mighty thirst at night, have gained something of a reputation in America by virtue of their visits the past two St. Patrick's Days.

But to hear Irish ballad singing at its best in most authentic surroundings, take a trip out to Howth, seven miles north of Dublin, where the comely Widow Minnie Lennon presides at the Abbey Tavern, one of those real drinking pubs with shiny brass handles on the stout pulls and row on row of Irish whisky bottles.

And Spoons

There the Ludlow Group," four boys, two girls, a fiddle, a flute and a pair of spoons (Ireland is the last remaining stronghold of the spoon virtuoso), provides unforgettable ballads, some boozy, some pure blarney, all delightful.

And the nice thing about Irish singing groups is that they don't have to let their hair grow long like their dissolute British cousins. All they got to do is get their Ma to knit them a fisherman's sweater and they're in business.

No self-respecting Irish balladier would be caught out after dark without his unbleached woolen sweater to fight the dews and damps.

Trombonist Feature of Concert

Trombonist Vernon Forbes will be soloist with the Lincoln Municipal Band in tonight's outdoor concert in Antelope Park.

He will play "Thoughts of Love" by Pryor.

SAC Band Concert Wednesday

The Strategic Air Force band from SAC headquarters in Omaha will present its annual concert for Lincoln Wednesday, 8 p.m. at Pinewood Bowl.

The 60-man SAC band is recognized as one of the most versatile musical units in the Armed Forces, and has received favorable notices in all parts of the world as well as the United States.

The band's versatility is reflected by its ability to form a 20-voice glee club, any number of dance units and combos, and a repertoire ranging from Bach to Bernstein.

The band will play under the direction of Capt. Edward V. D'Alfonso, commander and conductor of the unit. CWO Richard C. Daugherty is associate director.

Radio Operators Picnic Is Today

Beatrice — Citizen band radio operators from several states are expected for the second annual 10-4 radio picnic today at Riverside Park.

A "gab fest" will begin at 1:30 p.m. with a basket supper at 7 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Homestead CB Radio Club of Beatrice.

Young Musician

Diane Davies, left, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis T. Davies of Lincoln, and Donald Johanos, conductor of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, discuss music for the next Congress of Strings concert at Michigan State Univeristy, East Lansing. The Congress, sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians and MSU, is composed of 100 talented young string instrumentalists from the United States and Canada. The young musicians, all between the ages of 15 to 23, are at MSU for an intensive eight-week music training program.

Sculptor Overhoff stands beside his work, "The Universal Nerve", composed of 26 pieces of cast bronze.

'Tensions of Society' Captured in Bronze

By RODNEY GUILFOIL

San Francisco (UPI) — It doesn't make sense the first time you look at it, perhaps, but sculptor Jacques Overhoff is quite willing to give you plenty of time.

Several years, in fact. Then you might begin to be aware of what Overhoff intended when he welded 26 pieces of cast bronze together in a 12-foot high composition.

The sculpture stands in San Francisco's new Golden Gateway redevelopment area, a group of apartment towers and business offices along the waterfront. It took Overhoff eight months to complete the work.

At first glance, it looks like a number of torn-up pieces of cardboard carton stuck together haphazardly. But that is not quite what Overhoff had in mind. He calls the work "universal nerve."

"I'm aware of social tensions and forces working against each other," he says. "I've tried to translate this feeling into my work.

"It makes sense if you look at it long enough. It's a symbol of our times and it has a growing quality. In a couple of years, it might seem to you to be twice as big."

Overhoff, born in The Netherlands, a lean and friendly man of 32, works closely with architects and designers so his works can harmonize with their settings.

He and three Dutch friends have opened a bronze foundry in San Francisco's industrial district.

Overhoff started his Golden Gateway sculpture entirely with a full scale wax model. When he had it assembled to his liking, he cut the pieces apart with a hot knife and then cast them in a process involving "positive" and "negative" molds.

When he had his 26 pieces all cast in bronze, he welded them back together again. The sections weigh an average of 150 pounds. Then he applied a greenish patina to make the work look a bit aged.

Overhoff is now dickering with a firm to do a four-story high work, possibly in concrete, in Los Angeles.

He is confident of the future.

"Business firms are spending more and more money these days on art and architecture," he says.

Salty Pen Writes Of Papa, Critics

Notes From a Sea Diary. By Nelson Algren; Putnam's.

It is a pleasure once more to be able to recommend a new book by Nelson Algren after being disappointed by its recent predecessors.

"Notes From a Sea Diary" is an offbeat book — a congenial concoction of travel, criticism, and plenty of blunt, old-fashioned opinionatedness. Algren obviously had a lot he wanted to get off his chest on the subject of Ernest (Papa) Hemingway, and here he says it all —briskly and bruisingly.

A bow is in order for the adroit carpentry which went into the book's construction. Most of it consists of a boisterous account of a volage he made from the West Coast to India on a freighter three years ago.

Slow Boat Notes

On the correct assumption that one has plenty of time to think and write on a slow boat to the Orient, Algren has superimposed on his sea diary a fighting appreciation of Hemingway and, more to the point, his views on critics who write nit-picking notes on the Master.

The upshot of all this is a kind of "Advertisements for Myself," written in Mailer-esque style and just as exhilarating to read.

Algren passionately admires Hemingway and has nothing but contempt for the critics who look down their toplofty noses at him.

This anger of Algren's is easy enough to dismiss, especially by the gentlemen he castigates. But that would be a mistake, I suggest, since Algren's polemic is not based on mere name-calling.

It rests on his reassertion of the unassailable primacy of the creative writer over the critic. In this country criticism is fast becoming a dominant branch of letters to the point where criticism of criticism — a type of literary cannibalism — is now widely practiced.

It cannot be too often reiterated that, until the creative writer has written, the critic cannot begin to function, which is why Algren's passionate attack on the critical superiority complex is long overdue. "He demands that perilous voyages be undertaken and storms be endured but himself stays on the dock," says Algren of the critic.

Met But Once

Algren met Hemingway only once, when he visited him at the villa in Havana. His account of the meeting is a masterpiece of nerve-end reporting as the two writers warily exchanged hair-on-the-chest dialogue.

If you like Hemingway, as I do, and think too many have battened on his art, Algren will speak loudly for you. Here are his closing lines:

"Of the American writers of our time now dead, which one, given a single choice, would you bring back to life? For myself it would have to be Hemingway. Hemingway all the way."

Hicks' Life Unpainted

Part of the Truth. By Granville Hicks; Harcourt, Brace & World.

The lives of writers are seldom stirring or dramatic. Their excitements are interior ones: it is their characters who do the acting.

If this be true of the novelist, how much truer is it of the critic and teacher, even one as esteemed as Granville Hicks, who conducts the weekly Literary Horizons column in the Saturday Review?

Now in his mid-60s, Hicks is one of the most acute literary critics in the country, a man whose lucid judgments on writing past and present have won him an enviable reputation.

When he left Harvard as a young man it seemed likely that the pulpit would claim him. Fortunately, he changed horses in midstream and took to writing and teaching.

Probably the most far-reaching event in Hicks' life was the one which propelled him into the public eye and lent to his sedate career what exterior excitement it possessed. In the Thirties, he became a Communist, as did a good many of the intellectuals of his generation.

He realizes that he made a monumental blunder. "I know now, of course, that my decision was wrong, but I can understand why I made it."

Today he describes himself as a "critical liberal," a genus of sharply tempered radical whose credo he describes in the book.

In this straight and unvarnished autobiography, Hicks looks back over a life rich in human and artistic rewards if poor in worldly gain. His shelf of books stands to his credit, and the best of them will continue to be read. Not, I suggest, his novels, which demonstrated only that his true metier was criticism.

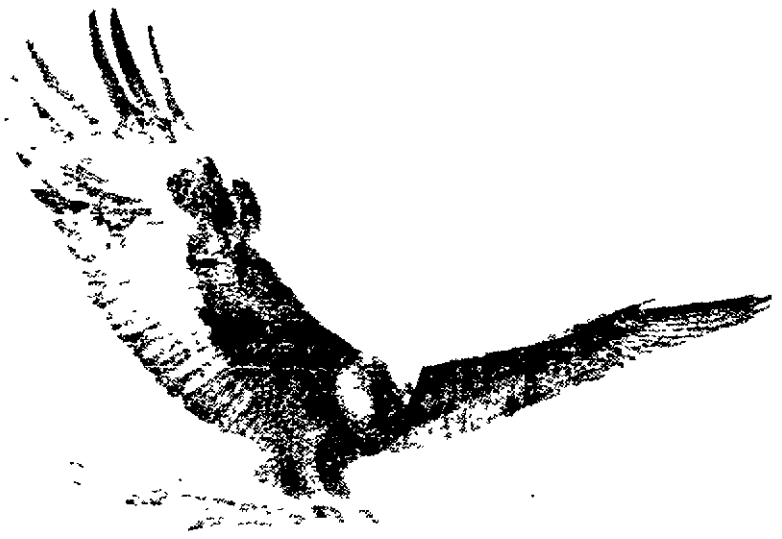
BOOKS



Lordly, and Vanishing, Eagle

If—Heaven forfend—the eagle should ever become extinct, at least we shall have Robert Murphy's stirring story to tell us what the lordly birds were like. "The Golden Eagle" (Dutton) describes an eagle's life in the Colorado Rockies from birth to maturity and death at the hands of man. Striking drawings are by John Schoenherr. The book reaffirms Peter Matthiessen's sentiment, "the golden eagle seems almost to disdain the civilization that is sweeping it away."

Bittersweet, Tender as Love Once Was

The Garden of the Finzi-Continis. By Giorgio Bassani. Atheneum.

The bittersweet quality of this love story lingers like a fragrant after-taste. Long after one lays down the book, he remains under its haunting spell. The genre as a whole is outmoded to our taste, the current U.S. model of which tends to oscillate between sex and sadism with an absolute taboo on tenderness.

"The Garden of the Finzi-Continis" stands at the opposite pole from all this. Call it old-fashioned, but this is love as it used to be before the bed-'em-and-leave-'em school of novelists took over.

Bassani has written an elusive story of a young Italian's love for a well-born girl in the years just before the outbreak of World War II. Both are members of Jewish families in the town of Ferrara, and their Jewishness, with its strong and aristocratic Italian overlay, is an integral element in the story.

This subtle and beautiful book is a timeless tale which depends for its effect not on shock but on the traditional virtues of imagination, beauty and craftsmanship.

Wall Eyed As Symbol

The Berlin Wall. By Pierre Galante; Doubleday.

Unwittingly perhaps, Galante raises a question—love for a dachshund, or jewels, or money; fear of sand in the hair, mud in the eye, a reprimand; do these things mean more to some men than liberty?

"Nobody intends to build a wall," Red Walter Ulbricht screamed. But his troops did, in 1961. And it's still there. And most people hate it and many have escaped under, through and over it, and it MIGHT wind up as the symbol that vanquishes Communism.

The Russia That Was

The Last Grand Duchess. By Ina Vorres. Scribners.

In the title role is Olga Alexandrovna, daughter of one tsar (Alexander III) and sister of another (Nicholas II, last Romanov to rule, victim of defeat by the Japanese in 1904, by the Germans in 1914-17 and by the Russian people in 1917-18 before the Bolsheviks killed him and his family in Ekaterinburg).

Olga and her husband, onetime tsarist army colonel, eventually made their way to exile in Canada, where Olga died in 1960 at 79 — not long after British writer Vorrse completed the many interviews that resulted in this apologia for the Romanov rule.

Among the interesting points the Grand Duchess makes, or which Vorres makes for her:

Rasputin wasn't really a bad guy, did have the power to heal and was only a little sinister (unconvincing).

Anna Anderson, who claimed to be Anastasia, youngest daughter of Nicholas II and who further claimed to have survived Ekaterinburg, wasn't Anastasia (convincing).

Although "The Last Grand Duchess" gives some insight into pre-revolutionary Russia that is lacking in most of our English-language histories, one must be skeptical because of Vorres' penchant for putting his opinions in Olga's mouth, and for such an error as moving the smashing Russian defeat at the hands of Ludendorff and Hindenberg into the summer of 1915, a year later than it happened.

High Valley Eye-Opener

The High Valley. By Kenneth E. Read; Scribners.

Finishing this eye-opener about a sociologist's two years in New Guinea's central highlands, one's first thought could be — what this old world needs still isn't a good 5c cigar, it's a million missionaries, at least.

Where mothers rub their babies' nasal mucus on their own thighs; where women carry their foul hair in bloody animal stomachs; where tribesmen abuse themselves in furious unison; where greeting, male or female, is by grasping each other's primary sex organs —this is the village Susuroka in the village Asaro. Where ignorance is supreme and the devil winks himself to sleep.
